

HOOVER BOOM UNDER WAY IN NEW ENGLAND

Maine delegation to congress. Vermont, it is believed, is almost solidly behind Hoover as Republican candidate, while Democrats favor Smith.

Virtually the same sentiment is to be found in southern New England.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut are lined up behind two candidates—Republicans, Hoover; Democrats, Smith.

Hoover Opposes Strong Leaders Of Old Guard

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 9.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has started a bare fist struggle against his silent opposition with his entry into the Indiana primary, Republican politicians of all factions believed here today.

In Ohio and Indiana—the heart of Republicanism—he has pitted himself against Senators Willis and Watson, two of the most powerful leaders of the old guard.

The outcome of the dual fight will have an important bearing not only upon Hoover's individual candidacy, but upon control by the old guard in the two central states.

Encouraging Reports
Hoover late yesterday filed against Watson because of encouraging reports of anti-Watson leaders in Indiana. They told Hoover he had a good chance to carry the state against the "favorite son." Watson has run Republican politics in the state almost single handed the last few years.

Recently, however, there have been numerous uprisings in local politics which Hoover's friends believe have hurt the senator. Hoover's issue there will be: "Shall Jim Watson continue as leader in Indiana?" the secretary's friends here say. It is the same issue which drew him into Ohio to contest against Willis.

Both Willis and Watson were opposed to the Hoover candidacy from the first. They would rather have Frank Lowden, of Illinois, or Vice President Dawes.

May Enter West Virginia
Watson's friends said he will now go into West Virginia to contest Hoover's right to that delegation. Watson himself has declined to indicate what steps he will take.

What Hoover's chances are in Indiana is a much discussed question here. In Ohio, Hoover can get whatever delegates he may win in the various districts, but in Indiana he has no chance.

The Farm Bureau reports $38,819,271.16 of an increase over 1926. There seems to be considerable of this amount that hasn't got to my shop as yet, and for the convenience of those who haven't reported, I will state that I have oiled and dusted my cash register and am all set to go.

diana the man who wins a majority of the state takes the whole delegation of 33 votes. Either he or Watson will get the whole state.

Smith Gets First Place On State Bourbon Ballot

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 9. Gov. Al Smith, of New York, today qualified for first place on the Democratic ballot in the California presidential primary election, May 1.

This announcement was made by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan upon receipt of petitions for Smith delegates bearing 1199 names from San Francisco and 238 names from Sacramento. This gives a total of 1437 signatures, which 1413 were sufficient to qualify.

Under the California presidential primary act, the group of delegates first qualifying are given the preferred position on the ballot at the top of the left hand column.

Indorsement of this group of delegates pledged to Governor Smith also was received from the state committee created in support of his candidacy. This committee is headed by Charles W. Fay, of San Francisco, chairman, and J. W. Ehrlich, secretary.

McAdoo Heads Walsh Delegate Candidates
SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—The name of William G. McAdoo today headed the list of delegate candidates pledged to Senator Thomas J. Walsh in the Democratic presidential primary race in California.

McAdoo, himself twice a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, will throw the full support of his political organization in the state behind Walsh in an effort to prevent Gov. Al Smith, of New York, from capturing the California delegation.

The name of the former secretary of the treasury was placed as a candidate for delegates-at-large to the Houston convention on the Walsh slate, which was completed last night.

George Creel, director of government publicity during the war, and Mrs. Kathleen Norris, the author, also were entered as Walsh delegate candidates.

Regarded As Challenge
The placing of Mrs. Norris' name on the delegate slate was regarded as a challenge to the supporters of Governor Smith, who have Gertrude Atherton on their ticket.

The list of Smith candidates for delegates to the Houston convention was completed some time ago. The delegate list for Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, will be finished shortly, it was announced at his headquarters here.

William P. Hibbard, directing Reed's campaign in California, denied there was any move on foot to consolidate the Walsh and Reed forces to defeat Smith in the California primaries.

"That is Smith propaganda pure and simple," said Hibbard. "It is an effort to undermine the Reed campaign. There will be no such alliance."

The list of Walsh delegate candidates follows:

GOODWIN COMES TO COURT FOR LIFE SENTENCE

BULLETIN

Superior Judge E. J. Marks late today sentenced the Rev. Phillip A. Goodwin to life imprisonment in Folsom for killing Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles broker, March, 1926. A jury found the priest guilty of first degree murder Wednesday, at 4:40 p. m., after five hours' deliberation.

For the second time within two years, the Rev. Phillip A. Goodwin was scheduled today to stand before Superior Judge E. J. Marks and receive sentence for the killing of Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles broker. In March, 1926.

Today at 8 p. m., according to the law, the priest was to receive a life term. The jury which found him guilty recommended this action.

After his first conviction, Judge Marks ruled that Goodwin should hang. It was the first death punishment ever meted out by him.

The supreme court granted a new trial last January. Goodwin was returned and District Attorney Z. B. West Jr. and Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodgett secured the second conviction, confirming the verdict at the first hearing.

Goodwin, who already has been in the Utah penitentiary, is regarded as a second timer and a commitment to Folsom was thought today to be possible. At that prison he would be again thrown with Albert Dewey Gaines, his former friend and alleged accomplice in the Patterson crime.

Neither man has shown any friendly feeling for the other during the trial just ended, at which Gaines refused to testify. Both have been in the county jail. At the original hearings each testified against the other and each was convicted.

If Goodwin should be sent to San Quentin, he would again be near the death chamber where he once waited for the day when he was to hang. A stay of execution saved him once, but the new trial granted by the supreme court failed to save him from paying the penalty of life imprisonment for his act.

Goodwin and Gaines were convicted of killing Patterson and burning his body in the Santa Ana canyon, on a return trip from San Diego. They were accused of taking from his body a number of Julian stock certificates, which played a large part in the trial.

ORANGE COUNTY NOT AFFECTED BY TAX RULING

made retroactive, as the assessment period closes the first Monday in March.

Clears Up Situation
Governor Young saw in the supreme court's act "a splendid clearing up of the situation." It will now be up to interested persons to work out a plan, he said, whereby capital would be brought out of hiding and at the same time take care of the bank taxation.

State Controller Ray L. Riley declared "the way is now paved for an intelligent consideration of the problem."

"Primarily the decision has probably preserved the revenue to the state that has been paid under protest by the national banks," Riley continued, "for the supreme court said that both the 1925 and 1927 legislation was unconstitutional."

"No Discrimination"
"It would seem to follow that the legislature may have attempted to discriminate as between the taxation of national banks and competing capital. Nevertheless their action was unconstitutional and therefore there was in fact no discrimination."

"If this reasoning is sound, the state, from a revenue standpoint, is not particularly concerned with the present development, although future revenues are in jeopardy by reason of additional questions of discrimination that may be raised by the national banks when future tax payments are made."

"That problem will undoubtedly have the attention of the tax commission who have been seriously attempting to reach a satisfactory answer from the state's standpoint."

Securities Declared
"The situation with respect to the counties and the individual tax payer is not so satisfactory as a result of the decision. A large number of tax payers have declared for tax purposes intangible securities, money and solvent credits that were formerly concealed prior to the 1925 legislation and the decision leaves them at the mercy of a 100 per cent assessment upon which the local rate will be applied."

A WORD OF COMFORT

If you conceive of yourself as a puny thing born to live for a moment and then to be snuffed out, of course the terrible blow you have suffered will unman you and leave you as a broken and useless encumbrance on the earth. But the moment you sense yourself as an angel being destined for eternity, you face your disappointment and heartache as your supreme opportunity to develop and manifest the strength of an immortal soul, and you walk forward manfully and unafraid.

Cash awards totaling $200 are annually given to the junior voted by his professors as the best speaker and writer of English. O'Brien is a graduate of Santa Ana high school. He is a prominent contributor to campus literary productions.

Harold D. Jaynes, city traffic officer, was returned to the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday afternoon where he is a patient. Jaynes underwent an operation several months ago and has not recovered from it.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Burkland, 214 East Palmyra street, Orange, were treated at the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday afternoon for injuries received in an automobile accident on West Seventeenth street, according to a report from the hospital. Burkland suffered a fractured left arm and his wife was cut and bruised.

SKELETON DUG UP ON RANCH BY EXCAVATORS

Sheriff's officers today examined a skull and several bones of a human body, dug up on the old Ford ranch, near the Orange county fair grounds and decided it was the remains of an Indian which had probably been buried for more than 100 years.

The skeleton was dug up yesterday afternoon when workmen for Jake Schumacher were digging a pipe line through the property. The skeleton was found two and a half feet under the ground and most of the bones were found together. The skeleton fell apart when it was picked up, and the bones were crumbling, indicating the many years they had been buried.

So far as is known no other such skeletons have ever been found in this section of the county, it was said.

THE LARGEST ORGANIZATION OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD

ANAHEIM PLANS TO ENTERTAIN 400 EDITORS

The Anaheim Chamber of Commerce expects to entertain some 400 newspapermen and friends on the evening of April 2 in the Anaheim Elks' clubhouse. It was announced at yesterday's meeting of the chamber, when the definite date for the entertainment was set.

At the April 2 meeting, plans for the California Valencia Orange show in Anaheim early in May will be discussed.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair is composed of Harry D. Riley, chairman; George Reid, secretary of the chamber; and Lotus H. Loudon. The chamber appointed a committee consisting of Dr. H. H. Johnson, M. A. Gauer, J. A. Claves, Dr. J. G. Hilleary and Lotus H. Loudon to confer with committees from the Fullerton and Brea-Olinda school districts on the proposed county junior college.

LAGUNA BEACH REALTY DINNER ATTRACTS 100

LAGUNA BEACH, March 9.—More than 100 Orange county realtors and their guests heard Sam A. Selover, Long Beach realty broker, tell of land selling methods and conditions in other counties, when the Orange County Association of Realty Boards met here last night.

Selover only recently returned from a tour of the world, and while away took advantage of the opportunity to study conditions and methods used elsewhere. In no other country, he told his hearers, do they come up to the American standard of subdivision, and he gave many instances showing American progressiveness.

Selover dwelt particularly on conditions in Europe and he went into some detail regarding business conditions there, contrasting them and comparing them with what is found in this country. He spoke briefly regarding commercial affairs as he saw them, national and international attitudes, and the influence of American standards on European methods.

The speaker was high in his expression of confidence as to the future of Orange county and its development, and paid a high tribute to Laguna Beach and its realty board.

S. B. Edwards, vice president of the associated boards, presided at the meeting and the address of welcome was made by A. B. Marshall, president of the local realty board.

A feature of the entertainment program arranged for the visitors was "Laguna Moon," a new song by Olga Gullede, sung by Madame Beatrice Bowman, coloratura soprano and grand opera star, who responded to a number of encores. Fancy dancing by Miss Frances

ARRAIGNED HERE ON BAD CHECK CHARGES

Charged with issuing an alleged fictitious check for $80, Forrest G. Owen, 39, insurance man of Wilson avenue, Costa Mesa, was arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning. His bail was set at $2500 cash, and preliminary examination set for March 14, at 9 a. m.

Owen was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Herman Zabel, deputy.

SNOOK REFUTES ORDER SENT TO STATE POLICE

Frank G. Snook, chief of the division of motor vehicles for the state of California, was in Santa Ana yesterday when he refuted the orders received here Wednesday which would send all Orange county state traffic officers back on motorcycles at the first of the month.

Previous orders had been received to the effect that all men physically able to ride motors would use them instead of automobiles by April 1. This order was received here from Inspector F. T. Zimmerman, Los Angeles, by Captain Henry Meehan, who in turn delivered it to the officers.

If the plan had gone into effect, it would have meant the resignation of Dan D. Adams, state officer, who has never ridden a motorcycle and does not know how. It may also have cost the position of Joe Cleaver, state officer at San Juan Capistrano, who has never used a motor in his work. Snook declared that the order was void and that he would issue the instructions as to the time motorcycles are to replace automobiles in this county, and not Zimmerman.

Milburne and acrobatic dancing by little Joyce McElree, Mrs. Nellie Schwankovsky and Doris Messinger at the piano and a xylophone solo by Bobby Peacock of the Laguna Beach Marine band, were other numbers.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR CONCLAVE OF YOUNG MEN

Plans for the Young Men's Division conference of Southern California, which will be held in Santa Ana on Saturday and Sunday, March 17 to 19, were rounded into shape at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, when general chairman Leon Lauderbach rallied his committeemen to meet representatives of the clubs to be entertained.

Those present from out of the city were Herbert Seltzer, of Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Y. M. D. Clubs; Herbert Deley of Pasadena, president of the "Lion Tamers" group of the Y. M. D. and Kenneth Felton, editor in chief of the "Adventurer," the Y. M. D. publication. These visitors went into detail concerning the plans for the conference, and helped the local young men to get their work fully outlined.

The conference will open on Saturday afternoon with a basketball elimination tournament, to determine the Southern California Y. M. D. championship, which will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and in the high school gymnasium during the afternoon.

At 8 o'clock, there will be the opening fellowship dinner at the Y. M. C. A., with Herbert Seltzer of Los Angeles presiding. There will be addresses of welcome and responses, introduction of delegates, brief reports from clubs, singing, and other entertaining features.

"Life at Its Best" will be the theme of a discussion to be conducted by George Gleason, religious work director of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A.

Sunday the delegates will meet for breakfast at the Y at 9 a. m. In this connection there will be a devotional period, and the election of conference officers. At 10 o'clock, the conferences will separate into two discussion groups, led by Carroll Page Fisk of Pasadena, and J. Gustav White, of Los Angeles.

At noon, there will be a luncheon, followed by an address on "Life at Its Best," by Walter L. Thornton, of Los Angeles, and the session will adjourn at 2:30 o'clock. Local young men will be invited to enjoy the sessions of the conference, and it is hoped that many will take the opportunity to attend.

ANTAR DERAGA RETURNS FROM LOS ANGELES

Antar Deraga, U. S. weather observer at Newport Beach and a member of the Orange county advisory committee on aviation has returned from Los Angeles where he spent 10 days conducting an exhibit at the automobile show. Deraga spoke on the advantages of the Orange county airport and Newport Harbor to more than 40,000 persons during the 10 days, he estimated.

The Orange county man had a complete exhibit at the auto show. His exhibit included a complete airway meteorological observatory, a complete first class U. S. weather bureau and U. S. bureau of light-house aerological station, a complete set of government publications on airports, airways, rules and regulations; and an educational guide for pilots and ground rules on airlines.

Deraga was at the exhibit from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. daily. Every morning he gave a practical demonstration to a group of more than 200 school students. His exhibit was in the aviation department of the show and attracted much attention.

Many prominent aviation officials including Walter Parkin, director of aeronautics for the U. S. department of commerce and Major Clarence M. Young of the same department were at the exhibit a great deal of the time, Deraga reports.

CASE CONTINUED

The case of H. A. Meyer, Santa Ana, charged with non support of his wife, Helen, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until April 6. He was arrested Tuesday.

ORANGE COUNTY PIONEER DIES IN SON'S HOME

Funeral services will be held at Anaheim tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for George H. Brown, pioneer resident of Orange county and one of the first farmers in the Tustin and Irvine ranch districts. Brown, who resides at his ranch in Trabuco canyon, passed away yesterday at the home of his son Philip H. Brown, at Pomona.

Burial will be made at the Anaheim cemetery and the service will be held there. Brown was one of the best known ranchers in Orange county. At one time he was the biggest farmer in the county. He came to Orange county in 1874 and started farming in the Irvine and Trabuco canyon districts.

Brown is survived by four children, two daughters, Mrs. Eva Quick, of Stockton and Mrs. Cora Hendricks, of Corona; and two sons, Philip H. of Pomona, and Lester, of Los Angeles.

Church Scandal Has Chicago Echo

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Scandinavian nation's greatest church scandal—trial of Rev. Anton Bast, bishop of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, on charges of fraudulently converting charity funds—will be aired in America for the first time here soon when the $50,000 libel suit of the Rev. John P. Ingerslev comes up in superior court. He was called "a Judas Iscariot" by a church publication when the controversy was at its height.

The Rev. Mr. Bast was convicted fraudulently converting $47,684 of charity funds to his own use. He was sentenced to three months in jail and suspended from the church. The case aroused tremendous interest in the Scandinavian countries as Bast was the first pastor ever found guilty of a crime in any of the nations involved.

The Rev. Ingerslev, accuser of Bishop Bast, was denounced as a "Judas Iscariot" in a letter published in the Evangelisk Tidende, Methodist organ in Denmark. He filed suit for $50,000 against the Methodist Book concern, publishers of the organ, alleging the letter was of a libelous and insinuating character.

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter dismissed the action here for want of jurisdiction. It was then brought in superior court where arguments on petition for general demurrer will be heard soon.

The Methodist Book concern, in its demurrer, asserts Ingerslev's interpretation of the article in question was unwarranted.

STOCKHOLM, March 9.—A new type of freight car with collapsible roof has been developed in Sweden and put in traffic on the government owned railroads. The roof is curved and divided in the middle and can be opened by lowering the two halves down along the sides of the car.

This type is advantageous for shipping commodities which cannot be stored in regular box cars on account of the narrowness of the

GROCERY STORE IS ROBBED IN NIGHT

Burglars broke into the mercantile store of Gus Cook, 105 North Bristol street some time last night and robbed the cash register of $7 in cash, according to a report filed with the city police early this morning.

Entrance into the building was made through a window near the ceiling and so far as is known, the thieves went out the same way. Nothing else in the store was disturbed.

NOTRE DAME GIVES LECTURE IN SANTA ANA

A performance of the curative power of the human mind was given at the demonstration of Count Roman Ostojka at the Ebell club last night. Ostojka, who as Nostra Damas was buried alive here last year did not repeat his trance experiment but devoted most of his evening to a lecture explaining the science of psychiatry or mental therapeutics and demonstrating upon the sick. Some apparently believed they were helped.

Ostojka invited all who were suffering to come upon the stage and many came.

A motion picture which was taken in Santa Ana at the time Nostra Damas was buried alive last year was shown.

This was followed by an exhibition of animal hypnotizing during which Ostojka showed his peculiar influence of a rooster and a rabbit placing them in a cataleptic condition by a glance of his eye and waking them by a touch of his finger.

He finished with a demonstration of group suggestion and also proved his complete self-mastery by lying upon a bed of spikes with sharp points and then permitting a 230 pound man to stand upon his chest. The points did not puncture the skin.

The lecture and demonstration will be repeated again tonight.

Hawaiian Sugar Crop Estimated At 816,000 Tons

HONOLULU, T. H., March 9.—

Preliminary estimates for the Hawaiian raw sugar crop for 1928 has been placed at 816,000 tons by the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association. Experts believe that in all probability the estimate is too low and that it will later be increased to between 840,000 and 850,000 tons. Arthur H. Rice, retiring president of the Honolulu stock and bond exchange, believes that as a result of increasing acreage and more intensive cultivation the time when the annual Hawaiian sugar crop amounts to 1,000,000 tons is not far distant.

Seek New List Of World Beauties

LONDON, March 9.—Comeliness experts here are once more trying to solve the problem as to who are the world's most beautiful women. One gives the following three as topping the lists for all time: Queen Neferiti, the Egyptian; Mona Lisa; and Mrs. Davenport (as portrayed by Romney).

Another expert is of the opinion that the three most beautiful women of modern times are: Viscountess Curzon; Lady Nuburnholme, and Lady Brownlee. It is worthy of note that Lady Brownlow, formerly Miss Kitty Kinloch, is a member of the Davenport family; also that Mrs. Richard Norton, another of London's beautiful women, belongs to the Davenport line.

GILLIS TRIAL WILL BE HELD ON MARCH 28

Charles Gillis, Cypress, will be tried before Superior Judge Homer G. Ames, March 28, for selling liquor. The case was set for trial today.

The matter had been held in abeyance for several weeks pending the decision of the district court of appeals on an application for a writ of prohibition filed by the defendant's attorney, D. G. Wettlin.

The higher court has just decided that the case shall be tried here. Wettlin took the affair out of the local court after he had moved for a dismissal on the ground that the information against Gillis had not been filed within the legal period. The motion was denied and he immediately went before the higher tribunal, where he secured a temporary writ.

The law recently was changed, reducing the time for filing information from 30 to 15 days after the defendant is held to answer to the Superior court. Deputy District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, in arguing the case, contended that the new ruling did not provide any penalty for failure to file within the legal period. The only penalty, he stated, was provided in the older law, which said that the case should be dismissed if the defendant was not brought into Superior court within 30 days.

World's Largest Radio Station Is Built In Germany

BERLIN, March 9.—With the formal opening of the new radio sending station at Zeese, 15 miles from Berlin, Germany now possesses by far the most powerful station of the kind in the world. It has the tremendous energy of 120 kilowatts, or six times that of Daventry, the most powerful English station, and about a half more than Schenectady. The steel masts that bear the antenna are nearly 70 feet high. In all northern, middle and a part of western Germany the Zeese station can be heard with ordinary crystal sets, and in the rest of Germany with the simple one-tube sets.

One important aim in erecting the new station was to stimulate interest in the radio, which, now that the novelty has worn off, shows signs of slackening. A long wavelength, from 2000 to 3000 meters, will be used.

Berlin Women In Household League

BERLIN, March 9.—Rationally, the slogan of the day in Germany, has been extended to household management.

A newly formed league of housewives in Berlin proposed to simplify housekeeping, reduce house labor and run the home on a business basis by an advisory information service.

Seeing that there are about 15,000,000 households in Germany that are run by women through whose hands passes 60 per cent of the nation's earnings, it has seemed worth while to the promoters of the league to see what can be done to ensure that harassed housewives shall get their money's worth in all cases.

There are no household problems that the executive of the league cannot solve. All women are welcome to advice from a trained staff on the most economic ways to cook, bake wash and clean and how to keep household bills down.

TWO STOLEN AUTOS RECOVERED TODAY

Two automobiles reported stolen last night, one here and one at Anaheim, were recovered by Santa Ana police early this morning and returned to their owners.

Lloyd Pryor, of the Y. M. C. A., here, reported the theft of his car from a vacant lot at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:30 o'clock last night.

Ralph Lindloff, 104 South Helena street, Anaheim, reported the theft of his machine from an Anaheim street.

Both machines were found parked near 834 North Garnsey street early this morning, according to a police report.

MRS. ED. MOORE IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Ed Moore, 820 French street, passed away at 5:30 a. m. today at her home after a prolonged struggle with heart trouble. She had been a resident of Orange county for many years, where she was always identified with religious work in the Methodist Episcopal church.

She is survived by her husband, Ed Moore, Norval E. Moore of Orange, and Ray Moore of Huntington Beach, her two sons, and Mrs. Maud Farrar of Huntington Beach, her daughter. Harlan Currence, a brother, of Oakland, is expected to arrive here tomorrow. Funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

LOCAL AIRPORT DECLARED BEST IN SOUTHLAND

Orange County Airport, situated near the head of Newport bay and only 10 minutes from Santa Ana is at present the best airport in Southern California as far as landing conditions are concerned, according to the secretary of the Orange county advisory committee on aviation.

The airport is one of the few in California that can be used in wet weather, according to Deraga. Members of the advisory committee inspected the airport immediately following recent rains, and according to Deraga found the port in excellent condition. The rains, although heavy did not cause the ground to become muddy and the port was in condition at all times for landing, Deraga reports.

Steps to secure hangars and other equipment on the field will be taken by the committee immediately.

Aviation officials connected with the U. S. department of commerce including Walter Parkin and Major Clarence M. Young have visited the port during the past few weeks and have pronounced it ideal for an airport.

Capt. W. O. Snyder, airway extension superintendent of the U. S. government, will visit the port here next week, and may make some recommendations as to the ultimate use of the port by navy planes, it is reported by Deraga.

The addition of more acreage to the airport is another issue which will be pushed by the committee. It is desired to make the field one of the finest in the west. The fact that the port is close to Santa Ana and to Newport Beach makes its location ideal, according to those who have viewed it.

Water and other necessities for the field are also easily available, it is reported.

9961 ROOMS FOR G. O. P. DELEGATES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 9.—Delegates and visitors to the Republican national convention here next spring will find suitable hotel accommodations, it was indicated in a report of the convention committee today.

The report showed 9961 hotel rooms available within five blocks of convention hall. Private baths will be found in 6490 of these rooms, all of which are in 16 downtown hotels of Kansas City.

Downtown eating houses can handle 7500 persons per hour, the report continued, and it was believed no difficulty would be experienced in handling the throng of Republican leaders that will gather to nominate a candidate for president of the United States. It was pointed out that convention hall will seat only 14,000 persons regularly and not more than 18,000 can be crowded in by using auxiliary chairs. This group can be housed and fed within a radius of 10 blocks of the hall, the report showed.

Committee members were acquainted with many of the historic incidents surrounding the convention hall during their visit to Kansas City to prepare for the convention. The building was erected in 1889 for a half million dollars.

The building was put up in record time—91 days—after fire destroyed the old building, virtually on the eve of the Democratic convention, which was scheduled for Kansas City.

By public contribution, Kansas City kept the Democrats here. They promised a new hall before July 4, the date of the meeting, and the new hall was completed.

Because the hall was erected with public money and was in the nature of a community enterprise, it has since been in charge of a board of trustees who annually elect 13 directors. The directors and trustees serve without pay and the indirect profits the hall has brought to Kansas City have many times paid for the building.

William Jennings Bryan was nominated for the second time as Democratic candidate for president, in this hall; Caruso sang there to an audience of 18,000; The Miracle play and Marion Talley each took their share of Kansas City's homage from convention hall, and now the whole town is preparing to furnish a satisfactory stage in the hall on which the Republican national convention of 1928 may nominate their presidential candidate.

Rice Grain Cause Of Long Suffering

LONDON, March 9.—A single grain of rice caused a steambot captain no end of trouble for 38 years, according to an article in the British Medical Journal. The captain was married 38 years ago and got the usual rice shower. Since that time he had suffered from practically every illness known to medical science.

Finally he went to a hospital for a thorough examination.

COUNTY FLOOD
EXPERT TALKS
TO LIONS CLUB

Explaining that an engineer is one who can do for $1 what some one else could do for $2, Paul Bailey, engineer of the Orange county flood control district, told Lions in an address at the club's meeting yesterday, that the fullest research work possible would be done before he compiled his final report to the board of supervisors on a program for conservation and flood control work in Orange county.

"The training in fundamental science an engineer gets gives him the insight to utilize or restrain the forces of nature in the most direct manner and without expertiment," Bailey said, in explaining that a piece of work, such as the building of a dam, may be done by a man who has had years of experience in location and construction of such works, but that such a project might be a failure, finally, because of improper base for the foundation or because of the condition of soil in which the ends are anchored.

"The value of an engineer thorough in his work may infuse into an enterprise as distinct from one who by contact with construction learns common practice, was pointed out by the engineer. Some of the values were enumerated as follows:

Safety Assured

"Assurance of safety through a detail consideration of the forces acting on all parts of structures and the strength of the structure and its foundation to resist these forces.

"Economy of cost by fitting the dimensions of structure, selecting the materials and method of construction to fit the particular condition at hand.

"By so doing, the structure will not be unduly safe in one respect and weak in some other, but will be uniformly safe in all respects, with an ample safety factor throughout without excessive waste of material and labor."

Based on investigations so far made, Bailey asserted the opinion that if a dam is built in Santa Ana canyon it would have to be a dirt fill because there is not proper footing for a concrete wall. He enumerated many of the most important considerations that must be given to selection of a site and plan of construction in Santa Ana canyon as follows:

"Slopes available material will stand on when dry and when saturated.

"Uniformity of available material and permeability of this material when in dam.

"Degree of saturation that will occur in dam with type of cut-off selected.

Dam and Levees

"Differences between dam and levees which do not have water standing against them long, differential water pressure, strength to distribute pressure, leakage at joint with bedrock, simplicity of construction and extent of possible cracks that may occur."

Pointing out that the normal cost for engineering is 6 per cent of total for character of work before a flood control district, the engineer said that extended studies usually develop saving many times this amount in the construction costs alone.

Carl Mock was program chairman. Vocal selections by Mrs. C. A. Pepperton, of Anaheim, offered the musical features of the program. The soloist was accompanied by Mrs. R. G. Miller, of Long Beach, who also presented two piano solos.

The Chicago Cubs and the Portland Beavers will be special guests at the club meeting next Thursday, and preparations have been made to have the meeting open to all who may wish to attend. It is expected 250 or 300 persons will accept the opportunity to see the players composing the two baseball clubs.

Seal Beach Will Cut Cake At City
Election Monday

SEAL BEACH, March 9.—Seal Beach has a special ceremony of its own that will be observed again March 12, when the voters assemble at the city hall to vote for bonds to build a new and more attractive edifice and to extend the present sewer system to include East Seal Beach. This side issue is the cutting of a big cake for all voters who have passed the 70th milestone.

At former elections the slices disappeared in surprising numbers until not a crumb was left for the election board members, who had hoped to share the treat.

Pennsylvania Has Youngest Sheriff

STANBURY, Pa., March 9.—Snyder county, a little county at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains, claims the youngest sheriff in Pennsylvania and probably in the entire United States.

Cyril P. Runkle, who has just passed the 26th milestone in his life, is the sheriff. He succeeded his father in office, after the elder Runkle had suffered a stroke of paralysis.

For three years prior to his election last fall as sheriff, Runkle served as a deputy under his father, who had been incapacitated for active duty.

Residents here draw a striking contrast between this youth, who as yet has to worry little about shaving and the hard, rough, men who once held the office.

Runkle, it is said, prefers justice with mercy. In spite of this law enforcement comes first with the youth at all times, and it is said that when stern measures are required, Runkle, although he wears his revolver under his coat, rather than displayed in full view as formerly was the habit of sheriffs, can supply them.

Prior to undertaking the work of a law enforcement officer Runkle graduated from a business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and went to Pittsburgh, where he was employed as an accountant. He then tried his fortunes in Winter Haven, Fla., returning to assume the post of deputy sheriff when his father was incapacitated.

Wedding Observed
With Circus Lions

PARIS, March 9.—Not being satisfied with the ordinary risks attending marriage, Joseph Bouglione, a lion tamer and son of the director of Bezier's circus, and Mlle. Rosalie Ven Ben, also a lion tamer, decided to celebrate their wedding by entering the large cage of lions and patting the beasts in token of having brought them together.

After the wedding the bride and groom were escorted through Bezier's by the circus-cowboys and other noise makers found in every circus, and entered the main tent.

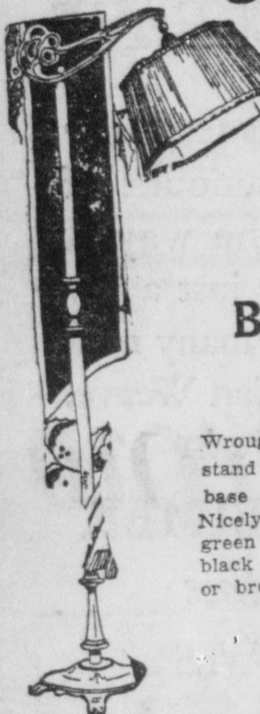

Bride and bridegroom kissed each other fondly, shook hands all round and entered the cage among the lions.

They survived the ordeal, and now hope to live happily ever after.

TRADES TO BE TAUGHT BLIND OF CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 9.—A new day is dawning for California's blind. A ray of sunshine is about to be thrown by the state into their darkened lives.

Instead of sitting about in state and private homes, with nothing to do but discuss their affliction, these poor unfortunates are to be trained for a new place in society.

They are to be taught new arts and crafts, whereby they may earn money and partly support themselves. All this is proposed under the most far-reaching and comprehensive program ever attempted by the state for its indigent blind.

First steps toward developing such a program were reported to Governor Young this week by Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director of the formation in Los Angeles of the Southern California Association for the Adult Blind.

Northern California is now to have a similar organization, too, and Mrs. Saylor has called a meeting of all persons and societies interested in training of the blind, at Governor Young's offices in the state building, San Francisco, March 22.

"Upon these two great associations will all the task of perfecting a program for the blind," said Mrs. Saylor. "They will receive the hearty support of the state administration, even to the extent of aid in proper legislation to be introduced at the 1929 session of the state legislature."

Crafts such as weaving, broom manufacturing, furniture making, woodcarving, bookbinding, etc., may be taught the blind under the tentative program outlined in Los Angeles. After a definite period of training, the "graduates" from these homes will go out into industries which can employ them. But the state's supervision will not cease. After care work is considered the most important phase of rehabilitation.

Marketing of products made by blind persons—a problem brought up at a recent meeting of the governor's council—will be handled through marketing centers in large cities, maintained by the state. Mail order purchasing will be encouraged.

Such a program, it is hoped, will eliminate much long-time residence in blind homes. A survey of the state home at Oakland disclosed that of all the inmates, 10 had resided there from 30 to 38 years, 16 from 20 to 29 years, 33 from 19 to 20 years, 30 from 5 to 10 years, and 30 less than 5 years.

DEMOCRATS OF STATE PREPARE FOR PRIMARIES

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(Special To The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 9.—With California's presidential primary election only seven weeks away, the popular pastime of counting noses to forecast the Democratic candidate is in full swing at the state capitol.

"Who's gonna win the wet and dry fight?" is the chief query of these political prognosticators. They wonder if Governor Al Smith of New York and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, representing the wets, will split the Bourbon vote and let in Senator Thomas A. Walsh of Montana, McAdoo candidate representing the bone-dry faction.

Whatever the results may be, this line-up promises the state of California one of the hottest and most interesting pre-primary struggles in its history.

Democrats, usually outnumbered 3 to 1 by Republicans in this state, are expecting to roll up a surprisingly large registration. The total state registration is predicted by Deputy Secretary of State Charles J. Hagerty, at 2,200,000. Of that number, normally, about 550,000 would be Democrats.

However, it is whispered that a lot of Republicans are registering Democratic in order to participate in this little free-for-all. The fact that California has a Prohibition registration of 20,000, and that Illinois and Missouri contribute heaviest to the population of Los Angeles only serves to complicate the situation.

Let's turn back to some sizzling wet-and-dry fights in California in days gone by. The last state primary in 1920, for example.

In this election was witnessed the spectacle of a wet candidate defeating a dry candidate for governor. Justus S. Wardell won over Carl Alexander Johnson by a vote of 57,875 to 60,329.

On the other hand, the dries administered a sound drubbing to the wets at the same election, when their candidate for U. S. senator, John B. Elliott, defeated Isadore B. Dockweiler by the comfortable margin of 77,841 to 51,507. The Democratic registration was then around 400,000.

The last prohibition test in California was over the move to repeal the Wright act, or California's "Lit-

LEASE SOLD
To The
Commercial National Bank
of Santa Ana

As the news item at the right states, our time limit is but 30 days—a very short period indeed in which to accomplish the stupendous task of disposing of $50,000 worth of merchandise at public sale. However, we have no alternative—close out this stock we must, as the terms of our lease transfer are binding. So, in order to assure quick action we have given no thought to cost or actual value, but have priced the goods at figures that will sweep the entire stock from our shelves in a whirlwind of enthusiastic buying.

To properly take care of a real rush of eager buyers we will have 35 experienced salespeople to help in serving you—cashiers and wrapping stations will be conveniently located throughout the store and every effort to insure prompt service will be extended.

Being a Close-Out Sale, we must advise that all purchases are cash—No C. O. D. or Phone Orders will be accepted. No Exchanges.

Reinhaus Brothers To Retire From Business Here

Lease Purchased From Dry Goods Company and Extended 15 Years

NEGOTIATIONS completed today signal the retirement of Reinhaus Brothers, after 50 years of commercial life in Santa Ana, and location in the building at the southeast corner of Fourth and Bush streets of the Commercial National Bank of Santa Ana. The bank has purchased the lease held by Reinhaus Brothers and has increased by 15 years, through agreement with John Gubbon, owner of the property, it was announced today.

Col. S. H. Finley, chairman of the bank's organization committee, revealed that negotiations, which have been under way for some weeks, had been completed.

Move Out in 30 Days
Reinhaus Brothers, the oldest dry goods firm in the city, have agreed to turn possession of the room over to the bank management within 30 days. In the meantime it will dispose of its entire stock and fixtures. The bank now is having plans drawn for remodeling the room into a modern banking house, with the best of vaults and banking fixtures. The room has a frontage of 50 feet on East Fourth street and 100 feet depth along Bush street.

Finley said the room would furnish ample space for the financial institution and that it would be possible for the bank in the future to increase its facilities and service without being cramped for quarters.

It is probable that the bank will be open for business June 1, it was said. "The regrettable phase of this announcement from the bank's point of view is retirement of the pioneer firm of Reinhaus Brothers," Finley said.

In Business 50 Years
"They have been in business here for 50 years and the firm has been organized for 43 years. The firm name has been a synonym for high standards of merchandising and business ethics in Santa Ana."

Max, Julius and Gus Reinhaus came here as young men in 1875, to take charge of the Gilmaker store then located on Bro'way and west corner of Bro'way and Fourth street. In 1885 the three brothers opened a dry goods store on the southeast corner of Fourth and Broadway and operated there until Jan. 1, 1890, when they opened in enlarged quarters in their present location.

For the past two days and a great part of two nights we have been working behind locked doors. Every bolt of piece goods—every article in women's and children's furnishings—every pair of shoes—in fact every single dollar's worth of this splendid high-grade stock now bears a colored sale ticket which carries a slashed price that will accomplish our purpose—of decisively, quickly clearing away the merchandise. You may attend this sale safe in the knowledge that the values will be most unusual—that every expectation of yours will be fulfilled.

ENTIRE $50,000
STOCK CONSISTING OF COMPLETE
LINES OF DRY GOODS; WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S FURNISHINGS; MEN'S, WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S SHOES, ETC., WILL GO AT AMAZING REDUCTIONS!

This is the beginning of the end of Orange County's longest established retail business firm—this is the finale of 52 years of successful merchandising. Within the next 30 days Reinhaus Bros. will turn the keys of this store over to the new lease holders and will retire from business. Having for so many years enjoyed the confidence and good will of thousands of patrons and friends in this community this announcement will no doubt bring countless expressions of regret on the passing of this establishment. For the next 30 days—or very likely even less, the entire stock of Reinhaus Bros., without restriction of reservation whatsoever will be offered to the buying public in this quick action, close-out sale. Those with an eye to economy will take full advantage of the saving possibilities—will buy needs for many months to come.

The Very Nature of This Stock Disposal Makes Unnecessary a Listing Here of the Hundreds of Rare Money-Saving Opportunities That Are in Store for You—We Simply Ask That You Come and Be the Judge!

The fact that this is a Bonafide Quitting-Business Sale, demanding a complete clearaway of entire stock—the fact that the public will have a right to expect unusual buying incentives during an event such as this, has brought us to the conclusion that a lengthy listing of items and prices is impractical and really of no importance to the buyer. It's VALUE which is the interesting factor—and prices mean nothing unless they are decisively lower than the quality of the merchandise involved should justify. This we are positive can only be determined by a personal inspection. With this viewpoint in mind we urge your attendance here tomorrow, confident that you will find the money-saving opportunities of a more radical nature than even the most skeptical shopper would expect. Buyers in any part of Orange County will be well repaid for time spent and distance traveled in order to be here. Come! Save!

Store Will Remain Open Saturday Evening Until 9 o'Clock

ALL STORE
FIXTURES
FOR SALE

This being a complete close-out sale, we will be forced to dispose of all store fixtures. We have several hundred feet of well-constructed shelving suitable for piece goods, shoes, etc.; a number of hardwood top counters, show cases, cabinets, garment display racks, metal window fixtures, shoe benches, chairs, etc. Merchants now in business or those intending to enter the retail field should come in and make us a bid.

All Store Fixtures sold subject to delivery at end of sale—which should be within 30 days.

PACIFIC COAST BASEBALL HEAD LEGION VISITOR

With 200 members present, the Santa Ana post, American Legion, last night heard speeches by Tom L. Turner, president and owner of the Portland baseball club which is in training here, Harry Williams, president of the Coast League, and various heads of the county law enforcement bodies, including Sheriff Sam Jernigan and L. C. Rogers.

The meeting started with a dinner served by the Legion auxiliary and was followed with a snappy vaudeville program from the West Coast-Walker theater.

Turner told the post a number of his war experiences. He is holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre and served through three major engagements with the 11th Infantry of the 28th division, the national guard outfit from Pennsylvania.

His medals came after a daring exploitation behind the German lines during the St. Mihiel offensive, when 14 men went over and he and two others were all that returned.

Turner enlisted as a private and at the close of the war was a lieutenant colonel. Most of his fighting was done while he was a second lieutenant. He was in a shell hole near Metz, sitting on his order, when the armistice was signed, he told his audience last night. Metz was being stormed at the time. Later his company was the first Americans to enter Metz, and Turner said that 60 Americans were killed after November 16, while taking up German mines which had been planted within a 11-mile circumference of the city of Metz. He said he believed that the American casualty list would have been 1,000,000 men if the war had lasted another week.

Turner was followed by President Harry Williams, who made only a short talk. He served in France as a war correspondent. Williams praised Santa Ana for the treatment it had given the Portland club here.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan, Chief of Police L. C. Rogers, Ed French, president of the Peace Officers' association, Jess Elliott, past president, all made short talks. George Burch, Portland newspaperman, also was introduced to the Legion.

Mrs. Rowena Fultz, president of the auxiliary announced an auxiliary dance to be held on the night of March 29, and invited the Legion also to a pot luck supper to be held on the night of April 5.

BREA

BREA, March 8.—Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Snider and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winchel were among the Brea people who on Wednesday afternoon attended the funeral of Mrs. Helen Haynes, 28, at Compton.

Mrs. Haynes was the wife of Claude Haynes, nephew of Mrs. Winchel.

Mrs. Carrie Killian was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Ladies' Lotto club, a newly formed organization composed of Brea and Olinda women.

First prize in the lotto went to Mrs. Earl Loney, second prize to Mrs. Everett Craig, while the hostess carried away third honors.

The next meeting of this club will be held March 21 at the home of another member, Mrs. Fred Hull, Los Angeles.

Annual election of high school trustees will be held at the Olinda and Laurel grammar school March 30. Officers of the election board are Mrs. J. L. Duncan, Mrs. Kathryn Vannatta and Mrs. Maude Feilly, while those officiating from Brea will be the Rev. W. B. Corlett, Mrs. Martha Remp and Miss Kathryn Burke.

W. D. Shaffer of Brea, and H. R. Williams, of Olinda, are the trustees whose terms are expiring and neither is a candidate.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow from the Brea chapel of Hilgenfeld and Rollins for Mrs. Laura Belle McCabe, 22, wife of Otto L. McCabe, who died at the Whittier Memorial hospital Wednesday morning following an operation performed on Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. S. F. Hilgenfeld will have charge of the services and interment will be made in Loma Vista cemetery.

Besides the husband, the deceased is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haden L. Carr; two brothers, Herman L. and Tom Carr, and one sister, Jennie Marie Carr, all residents of North Orange street. To be buried with the young wife and mother is a tiny daughter, born at the hospital on Tuesday afternoon.

Charles A. Sullivan has sold his interest in the corporation known as the Sullivan Brothers' Trucking company to his brother and partner, Arthur Sullivan. Arthur Sullivan will now be the president of this concern, with J. C. Hadley, of Long Beach, still retained as the general manager.

Citrol lodge, F. & A. M., will tomorrow evening celebrate its first anniversary with a 6:30 o'clock dinner, which is to be followed by a program, according to announcement made by Sid Potter, chairman of the program committee.

With the resumption of their bakery business here this week, Schuppert & Son are introducing many changes and improvements. Partitions are being moved that will provide much more space in their display room, where new glass and enamel trimmed display cases are to be installed. In the bake shop, hard wood tops are being placed on all work tables, a new floor laid and a new high-speed electric cake mixer is shortly to be set. A complete new electric refrigerating system has been installed.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, March 8.—Members of the Jolly Stitches Club and their friends met at the home of Mrs. Duell Wednesday afternoon. After the social hours, coffee, cake and cookies were served. Among those present were Mesdames George Cole, Jim Cole, Paulina Cole, Walter Knott, Coutts, Loughborough, Kettle, Coughran, C. Shear, Metta Shear and the hostess, C. F. Frazier was a Santa Ana visitor Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid society and Missionary society enjoyed a pot-luck dinner yesterday afternoon. Plans were discussed and a short program enjoyed after the dinner.

40,000 UNDER WRANGEL PLAN SOVIET DEFEAT

BRUSSELS, March 10.—An army of more than 40,000 music hall artists, miners, dock workers, and industrial workers, under the leadership of General Wrangel, the noted "white army" chief, is preparing for a counter-revolutionary move to unseat Stalin and all bolsheviks in Russia and to establish a "strong fist" government. This was the declaration made by General Wrangel at his small, but comfortable exile home in Brussels.

"My men are grouped in squads, each squad with a military chief, whom the squad supports, besides paying one per cent of their wages for the organization of our future victory," the counter-revolutionary chief explained. "They have got to work to make a living, but their officers stay home and take care of the community household, much as lieutenants or non-commissioned officers use to take care of their units in war days."

Most of the Wrangel soldiers live in Greece and in Turkey, but there are squads of them as well in Rumania, Bulgaria, and Belgium.

When asked what date he expected those "better days," General Wrangel shrugged his shoulders. "Who knows? There may be a sudden collapse of the soviet government one of these days, or it may last for quite some time," he replied.

If General Wrangel ever gets back to Russia "with proudly erect head," as he puts it, he wouldn't care about what sort of government Russia adopts. But if it's a republic, then it must be a "strong, authority republic, with men like Mussolini at its head."

1928 YEAR OF PROMISE NOTED LEADER THINKS

By J. RAMSAY McDONALD, M.P.
Former Prime Minister of Great Britain
By United Press, Arrangement with The London Daily Herald

LONDON, March 9.—This is to be a year of promising opportunity. During the coming months of 1928 there will be elections in France, Germany, Belgium; and our own lumps will have to move soon after. There will also be a presidential election in America.

The European countries are governed by majorities elected before the pacifying effect of the London conference was felt, and before they were warned by the abortive results of disarmament negotiations that unless new ideas backed by courage were brought into play, Europe would miss the chance it has of making itself secure against war.

We have been busy at Geneva with the day-to-day problems that have arisen, and we have managed to settle them pretty much as Prince Bismarck would have done it. We have accommodated troubles to their circumstances, we have prevented fires from spreading; but we have created no new mentality, and the latest pronouncement on disarmament belongs to the diplomacy of pre-war days.

It is true that we have said a great deal about arbitration and have put upon paper some provisions which promise delay in the outbreak of fighting. These things are of no practical value unless we can go deeper and protect ourselves against the possibility of an uprising of the war spirit. They all allow clever men to get round them, to confuse issues, to appeal to patriotism, to hoodwink and deceive. Their fundamental and fatal weakness is that they are founded upon a belief in militarism as the foundation of national security. They may win Nobel Prizes, but they have little to do with peace.

The fact is that they are the agreements that can be made without changing anything. They only demonstrate what everybody knows, that, at present, no European state can go to war with another state. When European states settle down, balance their budgets, develop their own policy, and are governed by a generation to which the late war is history represented by war films and nationalist propaganda, these paper declarations will be paper, and nothing more. I have far too much respect for the power of mind of the pre-war diplomats to believe that it will be tied down by what is essentially its own handiwork and its own methods. The militarists are bowing to necessity; they are not being dispossessed.

If when these important elections are over it is found that Europe is ruled by thoughts more radical and democratic, by minds in more direct touch with the sober ideas of common sense, by the young generation rather than by the old, we may have some hope of getting down to the roots of international co-operation and of burying forever the fears and the hesitations of the past.

The nearer we come to reaction in every country, the more separate each country becomes. Understandings between them become only the temporary agreements of potential enemies, not to advance common purposes, but to protect themselves against suspected foes. They are alliances of mutual defence; not of co-operation—or they are self-given certificates of character meant to be used for ulterior purposes.

If, however, for the next ten years we had governments in the chief European countries that held general views in common on international and national aims, that not only trusted but respected each other, that held their authority from an enlightened democracy, sane and reflecting, we should be in a position to begin to fill up the channels down which war runs, we could deal with debts, with inflicted injustice, with suppressed liberties.

If we permit ourselves to dream for a moment of a Europe governed by men of democratic personality, and of Geneva as an international committee of such governments, we would have for the first time a real League of Nations bold in facing its tasks and its problems.

and in a position to fulfill the wishes of the common people. The interests and the ideas of such governments would be different from those which now exist, they would put different values and meanings upon policy, their judgments upon events would be different, their handling and guidance would be different.

One hears occasional reflections in this country of how somebody or other, had they been in office, would have made the domestic work of the Labour government more effective. One does not hear that abroad. The advent of a Labour government here had the effect of giving the nations of Europe a new expectation and a new security. Not by reason of what we did but of the fact that we were in existence.

ence, foreign countries felt a new atmosphere around them. And it was an atmosphere of life and of hope. A belief spread that evils that had been accepted as belonging to the natural order of things were frauds, and with fresh minds men approached their work. It may have been only the psychology of the new boom, but give us 10 years of the new broom and much pestilential dust will be swept away.

The problem of the relations between the old and the new worlds could also be greatly affected by our European elections. Every time that I hear a speech upon the theme that serious differences between us is "unthinkable," I shudder. What horrible calamities have not grown into strength because at their early stages complacent people thought them unthinkable. These relations are not good. A nasty frame of mind is growing up. For the moment, it is found amongst individuals and classes of individuals, in a few newspapers and amongst certain interests. Unless it is dealt with, it will grow. It must be faced now.

Let it be faced by European governments whose designs and interests stand in the minds of Americans for old European policies, and misunderstandings will not be removed. When Lord Derby invited Senator Borah to come to Europe, America believed that it saw the working of the old bad European williness. The less that the Lord Derbys try to influence America the better.

What is evident to every observer of minds and events is that if the coming elections would strengthen the authority of a radical democracy in Europe, barriers of suspicion would fall and a reserve of goodwill would be released for the settlement of world affairs.

No less beneficial would be the effect of an increased influence of the political Left upon international standards of life. It is becoming more and more evident that no people can soar into high standards of life alone. We must go there altogether, and it must be a matter of disgrace to us that it is our government which is most obstructive at Geneva as regard International Labour Laws.

Portland Opens Three-Game Series With Giants

GAMES SHOULD TEST BASEBALL STRENGTH HERE

Johnson Expected to Give Every Pitcher on Staff Trial During Contests

Whether the popularity of baseball has waned, as some maintain, or whether it still is the grand and glorious national game, will be tested to the limit as far as Orange county is concerned today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Portland's Beavers, a representative Class AA team, and the Philadelphia Royal Hilldale Giants, colored champions of the world, were to sweep into action at the Orange County Fair grounds this afternoon for the first of a three-game series of exhibition baseball and if random doesn't support a treat like that there isn't much hope for the future of the recreation here.

Every game will begin at 2:30 o'clock. It will be the first time in the annals of Orange county sport that two clubs of such class, color and fire have undertaken a series and the attendance will be watched with keen interest to determine whether in future years the Fair grounds will make a satisfactory spring training camp.

Giants Favorites
The Giants enter the series top-heavy favorites because they are capable now of playing July baseball while the Beavers, just roundings into form after a winter of idleness, are not ready to do more than late March baseball.

Ernie Johnson, the peppery Portland field general, is expected to make use of virtually every runner on his big staff during the series as it is altogether too early to send a hurler over the nine-inning route. Bert Cole, late of the White Sox, was billed to start this afternoon's encounter and his replacement was expected to be Jack Warhop, the ancient right hander, who specializes on an underhand delivery much like Carl Mays throws.

Pitchers for Saturday and Sunday have not been definitely announced but fans were relatively certain to see such deceivers as Elmer Ponder, Fred Orman, Carroll Yekes, Larry French, Sam Iverson, "Buz" Wetzel and Johnny Couch.

The Giants will stand by their three regular heavies, Holland, Flournoy and Cooper, who are in shape to work as many innings as necessary.

Williams Enthusiastic
Harry A. Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league, was an enthusiastic spectator at Portland's workout yesterday.

President Williams is doing something this spring that no Coast league president in many years has done. He is visiting every training camp and looking over the teams. The Beavers were sixth on his list. He has already paid a call at every camp in Northern California.

"Looks to me like the biggest season the Coast league ever had," remarked the enthusiastic prey. "Every club I have seen so far has strengthened. That should mean a great race, especially since the new split season arrangement will give every team a new chance after July 1."

"Perhaps it is the split season, perhaps the many new faces brought into the league, or perhaps just a natural revival, but it certainly is a new chance after July 1."

CALIFORNIA REIGN ENDED

University of California's four-year reign as basketball king of the Pacific Coast has been broken at last. The collapse of the Bears was partly due to the lengthened football campaign which prevented Jim Dougery, captain, and his brother, Ralph, forward, from reporting for practice until after January 1. Below, left to right, are Ralph Dougery, Coach "Nibs" Price and Jim Dougery.

SANTA ANA JUNIOR COLLEGE GOES AGAINST GLENDALE IN CONFERENCE MEET SATURDAY

Santa Ana junior college's second conference track and field meet of the season will be held at Poly field tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, when Coach Bill Cook's scantily-attired army goes against Glendale college. The locals were badly beaten by Pasadena two weeks ago but hope for better things this time.

The much delayed competition with Compton, scheduled for last week but delayed by rain, will be staged at Compton next Wednesday afternoon, Cook announced today.

"Red" Guyer, the Dons' sensational sprinter who has been clocked in 9.8 seconds for the 100-yard dash and close to 22 flat in the 220 already, strained a leg muscle in practice this week and will be under orders to take things easy against Glendale. He may not even run in the dashes but leave the assignment on the broad shoulders of the competent Russell Hind, former Tustin prep star. Art Jacques cleared 6 feet in the high jump yesterday and is ready to argue supremacy with Chapman, Glendale's stellar bar-topper who is accredited with a mark of 6:2 in practice.

PICK SHARKEY TO KNOCK OUT RISK MONDAY

RUNNERS BEGIN 44-MILE GRIND ACROSS DESERT

BY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Editor)

NEW YORK, March 9.—Jack Sharkey, splendidly trained at 190 pounds, should win by a knockout over Johnny Risko next Monday night. The Lithuanian has a real good fight somewhere in his system, and there is no reason why he should not deliver it when he meets the rotund Cleveland heavyweight.

Risko, after a period of comparative inactivity, does not shape up as Sharkey's equal in his New York training. Slow of foot and fist, with only the indomitable grit of a bulldog to carry him through, Johnny should be comparatively easy for Jack.

It is true that Risko has been knocked out but once during a fairly active, if brief, career and then it was "Chuck" Wiggins, a third rater, who delivered the coup de grace. It is equally true that Sharkey's knockout record is not impressive.

Nevertheless, the Lithuanian, with every advantage of size, speed, boxing skill, should be able to stop the former brawler within the limit of fifteen rounds.

If Sharkey does not knock out Risko, the sigh of relief which will go up from Tex Rickard's office in Madison Square Garden will meet another mighty sigh of satisfaction rolling up from Gene Tunney at Miami Beach.

A knockout victory for the Bostonian will mean a heavyweight battle for the championship in June, with Sharkey as one of the participants.

Tom Hickey's American manager, in the States Intercollegiate last spring, will leave with the clubmen tonight for Stanford university where he will run in the mile in the L. A. C. Stanford dual meet tomorrow afternoon.

Breeding hardly figures to place in this affair against such distance runners as Hank Lunney and Nick Carter of the club and Alex McKinnon of Stanford for the experience will be valuable. The gifted local boy hopes to make the American Olympic team this summer and has begun serious training.

The recent ruling that preathletes may run on club squads this season will allow two other well-known precs to participate tomorrow. Percy Huntington Park quarter-miler, and Willie Arenas, Indian runner from Covina.

Breeding is scheduled for a match race here March 23 with Don Hall, crack Long Beach high school boy, who is ineligible because of his advanced age. Hall trimmed Breeding twice in 1927 and Breeding won from Hall once.

Baby Sal Sorio
Given Rematch
With Jim Piel

HOLLYWOOD, March 9.—Jimmy Piel, who unexpectedly knocked out Baby Sal Sorio a month ago will be seen against the Little San Bernardino featherweight again when they meet at Hollywood Legion stadium April 13.

Sal and his handlers declare a misunderstanding on the count caused the Mexican to be counted out. He appeared to have been ready to continue.

Piel will make two appearances in the meantime. He meets Tony Ascencio, of Spain, in a six round semi-windup to the Martinez-Gans bout at the Olympic Tuesday, he clashes with Billy Hart in a six-rounder at Hollywood on the March 23 card, headlined by Jack Gross and Jack Roper.

Cuyler's Double
Wins For Chicago

AVON, A. Catalina Island, March 9.—A double by Hazen Cuyler allowed him to score the Chicago Cub regulars' only run in a 3 to 1 defeat at the hands of the yanigans.

Ban Johnson once offered Barry a job. The young man declined his offer because he did not care to work a season in the minors for experience, as Ban wished. That was in 1911.

CAREER LIKE EVANS
One learns from Barry's career that he has experienced many things that are recorded in the life of Billy Evans, the former umpire who now is general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Evans, after leaving college, was covering a game as sports editor of an Ohio newspaper one day when he was asked to substitute for the umpire who failed to show up. He did. One of his decisions led to his being chased over the back fence by irate fans right into

ENROUTE WITH PYLE CARAVAN, MOJAVE DESERT, Calif., March 9.—Wearied by almost a week of a muscle wracking journey, a depleted field of transcontinental footracers, headed by Arthur Newton, of South Africa, toiled on over the Mojave's sands today on their sixth day's run. They faced a 44-mile run under the burning sun on their trek from Mojave Wells to Bagdad.

No doubt affected by the monotony of this most desolate and cheerless of Western lands, the runners have settled down to a steady, plodding pace.

The crowds of the first few days, which cheered the gasping runners on to bursts of disastrous speed, are missing. The Pyle hurdy gurdy and sideshow has been doing little business in this lowly populated region.

The slender 44-year-old Newton, now leading the field in time elapsed, was able to accomplish the feat by a consistent, unhurried pace. Untroubled by the thought that bursts of stamina-destroying speed had put others ahead of him, he turned in good time each day.

Newton ran the 30 miles from Barstow to Mojave Wells yesterday in 4 hours and 48 minutes. His showing was not surprising as the other runners had viewed his steadiness with alarm.

It is now being freely predicted that he will take a part of the $48,500 in prizes for the Los Angeles to New York run.

His total time elapsed in the first five days was 24 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds. Ollie Wantlines, the little 96-pound Finn, who led at the start of yesterday's heat, was second in 24 hours, 30 minutes and 37 seconds.

Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., drew into third place while 26 hours, 42 minutes and 40 seconds. Ed Gardner, the Seattle negro, had a bad day, taking more than 7 hours for the run, and dropped from second to fourth place in the total standings.

Quomawah, the Arizona Hopi Indian, who dropped out Wednesday because of foot trouble, was taken 14 miles west of Barstow yesterday and made up the distance. He is far down the column, but appears encouraged.

The standings in total time for five days of the first 15 runners:

Hooks and Slides

Having fallen into the habit in recent years of acquiring most of their new playing talent from the college campuses, the two major leagues apparently have decided to pluck additions to their staffs of umpires in the same locations.

Perhaps such is not their thought, but it so happens that two of the new arbiters who will expose themselves to the cheers and jeers of the multitude this summer are more or less products of the collegiate game.

Dan Barry, a Boston sports writer who dreamed of a major league career as a player until an injury rudely awakened him, will call 'em as he sees 'em in the junior major loop.

"Dolly" Stark, whose first experience in pro company will be for John H. Heydler's league, is the other. Stark is only 30 years old, Barry a bit older.

Both have been very successful as collegiate callers and Stark has worked one season in a minor circuit.

Ban Johnson once offered Barry a job. The young man declined his offer because he did not care to work a season in the minors for experience, as Ban wished. That was in 1911.

CAREER LIKE EVANS
One learns from Barry's career that he has experienced many things that are recorded in the life of Billy Evans, the former umpire who now is general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Evans, after leaving college, was covering a game as sports editor of an Ohio newspaper one day when he was asked to substitute for the umpire who failed to show up. He did. One of his decisions led to his being chased over the back fence by irate fans right into a major league job. Barry didn't get to college, although he had been accepted by Notre Dame. An injury to his father forced him to work for a Boston newspaper. He played baseball in his spare time.

This activity drew the attention of the New York Americans and he was signed, only to be shipped to Utica and the Western league for seasoning. In the west he was injured, quit the game, and returned to Boston and his sports writing job.

Covering a scholastic game one day he was asked to umpire when the regular arbiter failed to show up.

Barry worked the game so well that he was asked to do many more and eventually became one of the most popular umpires working in eastern collegiate circles.

MIGHT BE AN EVANS
Of course, Barry is breaking in at a much older age than Billy Evans broke in many years ago, but there is enough similarity in their start to hope that Barry will prove as good an umpire for President Barnard as Evans did for Ban Johnson.

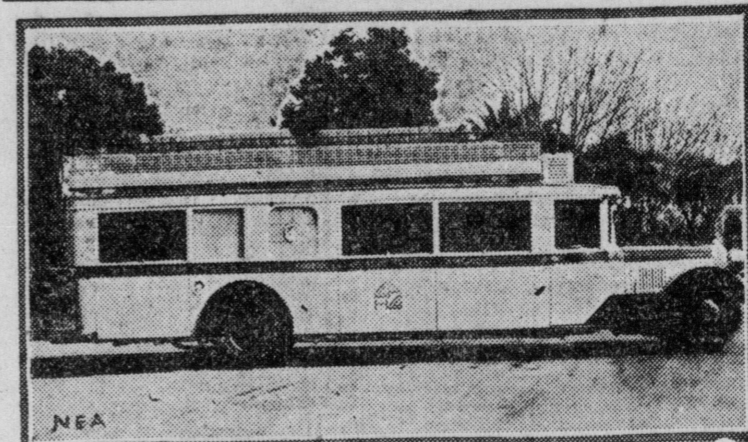

It might not be a bad idea for Mr. Barry and Mr. Stark, and any other young man who would like to be a major league umpire, to try and emulate the qualities that made Billy Evans recognized as a great and fair umpire.

A few more of his type would be welcomed in either league.

Both Stark and Barry will find umpiring at this time quite different from what it was when Evans broke in. Umpires no longer are thoroughly disliked both by fans and players. Often, as in the case of Evans, they acquire a prestige and popularity rivaling that of the great players on the diamond.

PYLE TRAVELS IN STYLE

C. C. Pyle, sponsor of the $48,000 transcontinental marathon, will accompany the contestants in palatial style, as this traveling home shows. Said to be the most expensive and finest thing of its kind, it will give complete home accommodations to 16 persons.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT AS MORE THAN 100 CANDIDATES OPEN SPRING GRID WORK AT U. C.

BERKELEY, March 9.—Clarence ("Nibs") Price fired the first gun of his 1928 Pacific Coast football campaign yesterday afternoon when the Bears' spring practice opened on Hilgard field. More than 100 experienced varsity and freshman athletes reported for work.

After equipment was issued the prospective Bear varsity began a program of training in fundamentals which Price and his assistant coach, Clint Evans, believe will make things easier for next fall. Clipping, tackling and all the other rudiments will come in for their full share of attention, although some new plays will be given to the teams.

Three Teams of Veterans
Approximately three full teams of veteran players will be available, although many lettermen are absent from spring practice due to participation in other sports, notably track. A full team of football men are working out on the California Oval under California's veteran track and field coach, Walter Christie.

Five first string men of last season are missing with four substitutes who saw a great deal of service, but Nibs Price feels that there will be men on hand to fill their places.

Captain Fritz Coltrin's place at tackle will be the most difficult to take care of, for the other first string tackle of 1927, Ned Green, will also graduate this May. Elmer Gerken, national intercollegiate shot put champion of two seasons ago, and Frank Fitz, who earned a letter at tackle, may both return and become regulars. The freshman squad of 1927 will also furnish a number of capable backs.

Plethora of Wingmen
Ends will again be in abundance, with only Jim Dougery and Dick Blewett lost to the squad. Dougery was a regular, while Blewett was a substitute. Captain-elect Irvine Phillips will hold down one flank position and he will undoubtedly prove to be the West Coast's premier end. Last season he received all-American mention.

The center of the Bear line will be strong where last season it was a source of weakness. Roy Riegels, the brilliant sophomore center, will be back fortified by an entire season's experience, while but one of the string of seven guards will graduate.

BOUT PROPOSED
LOS ANGELES, March 9.—A middleweight title match between Micky Walker, the champion, and Ace Hudkins, "Nebraska wildcat," at Wrigley field, was being contemplated here today.

Howard Paul May Be Out For Year
Howard Paul, Santa Ana, broad-jumper on Coach Tommy Davis' University of Southern California freshman track and field team, may be lost for the season as a result of a dislocation of his elbow, sustained in the freshman victory over Jefferson high school and Riverside junior college last week.

Paul was regarded as a very promising prospect, as he had cleared over 23 feet already this season.

George Blake To Quit Boxing Game
LOS ANGELES, March 9.—George Blake, who managed Fidel La Barba to the flyweight championship which he held on his retirement, has relinquished his stable of boxers.

Blake's fighters will be managed by Eddie Sears. Blake said he may do some refereeing in the future, but will not take out a license.

OLIVER'S TRACK TEAM ROLLS UP 89-24 VICTORY

Full Santa Ana Squad Will Represent City in Prep Relay Classic Saturday

Fresh from a rousing 89 to 24 triumph over Whittier in the first Coast Preparatory league dual meet of the 1928 season, Santa Ana high school's track squad, 30 strong, will invade the Los Angeles Coliseum tomorrow afternoon for participation in the annual A. A. U. Intercollegiate Relay carnival.

Coach "Tex" Oliver, jubilant over his team's work on a Poly cinderpath that was wet and soggy from recent rains, believes his runners and field event athletes will be able to make a representative showing in the Los Angeles classic, particularly as his men will be in a division in which are schools of 1200 or less enrollment.

In past years, the locals have been grouped with institutions of twice and three times as many students but they have always fared well.

Meet Little Less Than Rout
The Santa Ana-Whittier dual was little less than a rout, the Poets having only mediocre participants in most of the events. There were neither times nor distances to get excited about although Johnny Moffat, the long-legged captain of the home team, high-jumped 5 feet, 8 inches without exerting himself and Mel Beatty, one of Bill Foote's baseball players, deserted practice long enough to give the javelin a ride of 135 feet for first place.

The meet opened with something of a surprise when Carl Schoenberg, nosed out his teammate, Tommy Cone, in the 880 yard run in 2:3.3 which wasn't so bad considering the condition of the track. Ernie Velarde then led a closely bunched field to the tape in the 100 yard dash and when Moffat and Rebohn finished one-two in the high hurdles Santa Ana was well off to victory.

Joe Warner was an easy winner of the 440. He was timed in 56 seconds and didn't "bear down" at any time during the race.

Moffat Pressed in Lows
Captain Moffat won the 220 yard low hurdles but he was only a few strides ahead of Velarde and Rebohn, two other Poets.

Tom Donahue won the mile going away in 6 minutes and 1 second.

Santa Ana's discus throwers again had their troubles, the first place going to Davies, of Whittier. "Reg" Rust, who got a second for the locals, got away one toss of 112 feet but fouled. Warner won the shot with a shove of 43 feet.

The results:
380 yard run—Schoenberg (SA) first, Cone (SA) second, Smith (W) third. Time, 2 min. 9.3 sec.
100 yard dash—Velarde (SA) first, Adams (W) second, Rust (SA) third. Time, 10.7 sec.
120 yard high hurdles—Moffat (SA) first, Rebohn (SA) second, Holloway (W) third. Time, 16.2 sec.
440 yard dash—Warner (SA) first, Carlyle (SA) second, McPherson (SA) third. Time, 56.4 sec.
220 yard dash—Adams (W) first, Mossberg (SA) second, Lancaster (SA) third. Time, 24.5 sec.
220 yard low hurdles—Moffat (SA)

Days-up play this year will bring together more tennis playing nations than ever before.

Competition among the teams which are fighting for a place in the challenge round will be keener than ever.

Sons nations which have not figured strongly in the past threaten to be dangerous contenders in the next two months.

There will be little competition in the American zone until the United States meets Japan in the finals. But in the European zone, the shooting starts in the opening round. One of the most important matches abroad will be that between the Argentine and Great Britain.

The Argentine team, which was named the other day, will be: Ronald Boyd, G. Robson, A. H. Cattaruzza and C. Morea. The first three named starred in England two summers ago, and representatives of the British Isles are looking forward to no easy time in getting past the South Americans.

Robson and Cattaruzza won the doubles championship of London at the Queen's club courts and Cattaruzza met and defeated Boyd in the finals of the singles.

The Argentinians are said to have improved greatly in the ensuing two years, in which case it is quite possible that the opening round of Davis Cup play will witness the elimination of the British Isles, an unprecedented event.

Germany is considered the "dark horse" of the European zone, and after defeating Greece, which should not be difficult, the Germans will meet the winners of the Chile-Spain match. The Chileans have not the flair for tennis displayed by the Argentinians, and Spain should meet the Germans.

The Australians play the strong Italian team in this same half of the draw, while the Belgians meet the Rumanians.

It will be seen from this that most of the strength in the European zone is concentrated—by chance—in the upper brackets. Downstairs, there are few dangerous contenders. Perhaps the strongest are the South Africans, the New Zealanders and the Austrians, not a formidable lot of tennis players.

Favorites in the upper brackets are the Australians, who are challenging this season with a team which comprises a nice balance of experience and youth.

HOWLEY FACES DIFFICULT JOB AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 9.—Manager Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns is confronted by a difficult task this year.

His team finished seventh last season and his roster now is made up of practically newcomers. Only four men of the 1927 pitching staff are around this season. They are: Walter Stewart, a left hander; Ernie Nevers, who learned to pitch at Stanford University; Win Ballou and Al Crowder. Sammy Gray, formerly of the Athletics, and the high-priced John Ogden of Baltimore are the recent additions who should win plenty of ball games for the Browns.

George Blaholder of Tulsa, Dick Coffman, former Senator; James Wright, Walter Beck, Fred Burnett, Ralph Hill, John Ogden and George Valentine are the other members of the Brownie hill corp. Blaholder won 26 games for Tulsa in 1927 while Coffman showed promise for the Nationals so Manager Howley may have a pair of "finds."

Schang, O'Neill To Catch

The hard-hitting Wally Schang and Steve O'Neill, both veterans, will very likely again divide the catching work. Clyde Manion, of the Newark club, is the other Brownie receiver.

Lu Blue, will be given a chance to fill George Sisler's shoes at first base. The two players were involved in a trade during the winter between the Browns and Detroit. Guy Sturdy, a slugger from Tulsa, also promises to make a bid to hold down the initial sack. Oscar Melillo is the best bet for second base but he will have to step lively for Otis Brannon, a youngster from Tulsa, has indicated that he would like to be a big-leaguer.

Walter Gerber, a veteran of many years, and Richard Kress, another graduate of the Tulsa club, are set to battle at shortstop. It is expected that Kress will win out and Gerber be used as a utility infielder.

Two Third Basemen

Billy Mullen and Frank O'Rourke, two dependable infielders, are the club's third basemen. Mullen was on the shelf last season and if he can "come back" Manager Howley intends to shift O'Rourke over to second base.

The other Brownie infielders are Al McCoy, Jack Delp, Ernie Peters and Oliver Sax. Not much is known about the latter group. Fred Schulte, who proved a sensation last season in his debut in the big show is the only regular Brownie outfielder on the roster this season. In fact Manager Howley has only three fly-chasers on his list and is dickering to sign another one. Earl McNeely, ex-Senator, and Heine Manush, former Detroit star, should win regular outfield berths.

Bill Kilmer and Jimmy Austin will again be called on to serve as the coaches.

MR. GENE TUNNEY, HARPIS

From this photograph of Gene Tunney, we learn that our heavy-weight champion among other things is musically inclined and rather gifted. This may prove more of a shock than ever to some of our fighting gentry who already know of his love for the works of William Shakespeare and who like their men of the ring to be total strangers to the liberal arts. Truly, Gene is a man of parts.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER GIVES RABIES ADVICE

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, issued the following statement today regarding rabies: "A recent bulletin from the state department of health warns that rabies in dogs is again assuming epidemic proportions. For several years rabies has been more or less prevalent in Southern California, but it is now spreading to previously uninfected territory. Similar reports for adjoining states, even as far east as Chicago, reveal that the condition is not local and hence doubly serious.

"Rabies is most commonly spread through bites and scratches inflicted by rabid dogs. Other animals, such as cats, cattle, horses, rats, and wild animals may spread the infection, but this is not so common. The diagnosis of rabies in dogs may not be easy, but the following symptoms, as given in the Weekly Bulletin, may be considered a sufficient evidence for suspecting rabies and reporting the condition of the animal to the health department:

"Dogs which are generally good tempered may become sullen or even vicious, and dogs which are ordinarily of mean disposition may become docile and submissive. There is generally, however, an unusual nervousness or irritability, with a tendency to leave home and wander aimlessly from place to place. There may appear a change in the tones of the animal's voice. At this stage, the dog generally refuses to eat and develops a tendency to snap and bite without provocation. In the later stages of the disease, there is generally a weakness or a paralysis of the legs and of the lower jaw.

"When a dog acts in a manner suggestive of rabies it should not be killed unless it cannot be caught with safety. It should be chained in a safe place and reported to the health department as a rabies suspect, for observation over a period of ten days. If the dog remains well at the end of the observation period, it may be released and any person who might have been bitten by the dog need have no fear of contracting rabies. If, on the other hand, the dog has rabies it will manifest symptoms during the period of observation and will usually succumb to the disease in from four to seven days. This period of ten days' observation is necessary because the signs of rabies do not develop in the dog's brain until just before death. This is why it is necessary that the dog not be killed at the beginning of the disease, if a definite diagnosis of rabies is to be made.

"If a person has been bitten it is important to care for the bite correctly whether or not the dog is thought rabid. The following procedure is indicated:

1. Call a physician, the doctor will cleanse and dress the wound properly, so that the possibility of infection from any disease, including rabies, will be lessened. In addition notify the health department immediately in order that the offending animal may be traced and put under proper observation.

2. The dog should be captured alive if possible and placed under observation after the manner described above. In case the dog is killed for any reason the health department, upon notification, will take charge of the head and have it examined for signs of rabies.

3. If the dog is found to be rabid the Pasteur anti-rabies treatment should be started at once by the physician or if the patient cannot afford the cost, then by the department of health. In case rabies cannot positively be ruled out, even though it cannot be definitely established, it will be advisable to take this precaution. During the course of the Pasteur treatment the patient may go about his business as usual. It is not necessary for him to be confined to bed or remain in the house.

"In order to prevent the spread of rabies, the following rules should be adopted by individuals and communities as a whole:

1. Do not let dogs run loose and unleashed.

2. Have pets immunized by use of rabies vaccination.

3. Put in force a systematic removal from the streets of homeless and wandering dogs.

4. Do not pet or tease strange dogs. Children should be cautioned against this danger, especially at the present time.

5. Report every dog bite to the department of health and have the bite treated immediately by a physician. Consult your physician about the advisability of taking the Pasteur treatment while finding out if the dog is mad.

6. Do not kill a biting dog unless it cannot be captured alive with safety. Report the animal immediately to the health department, so that it may be placed under observation for symptoms of developing rabies.

"Remember the health department is urgently asking co-operation in eliminating rabies in dogs, thus protecting and saving human lives."

CANADA PROSPERS

TORONTO, Ont., March 9.—In the face of a slight downward trend of business in the United States, Canada's prosperity is pointed definitely upward for 1928, said Creighton Hill, Babson statistical expert, addressing the Toronto Rotary club. He also declared the dominion was in a position to maintain an independent prosperity throughout 1928.

Tragedy Stalks Germany Family

BERLIN, March 9.—Tragic has been the fate of two living descendants of General Frederick Wilhelm von Steuben of revolutionary fame.

Hertha von Steuben, General von Steuben's 30-year-old great-grandniece, who 10 years ago was a promising actress, is today an inmate in the Berlin Asylum for Destitute Incurables. Her mother, Eger von Steuben, lives in penury in one of the city's suburbs.

Upon the loss of the family fortune, at the death of her father in 1912, Hertha von Steuben decided to go on the stage. She graduated with honors from the training school of the former Royal Theater in Berlin, being the only one among 300 students to be awarded the Seebach medal for unusual dramatic talent.

At her first engagement with the Royal Theater of Potsdam, she took the public and critics by storm and a great future was predicted for the young actress, who was also an accomplished linguist, speaking four languages, and a gifted musician.

The outbreak of the World War proved a death blow to her highly strung nervous temperament, ensuing financial worries hastening her complete derangement. As long as her mother still had the means, Hertha von Steuben was dragged from one sanatorium to another until all the money was gone and she was pronounced incurable.

Two New Devices Invented For Cars

STOCKHOLM, March 9.—Two practical contrivances which promise to be of great service to motorists have just been invented in Sweden.

The first invention, work of Rudolph Isoz of Stockholm, is a locking device without a key for the protection of a parked automobile against theft. Instead of a key, a cipher combination is used that can be locked and opened by simply turning a knob and pressing a button. While locked it makes impossible the starting of the car. The lock permits up to 15,000 different combinations.

The other, made by Bernhard Heiners, also of Stockholm, is a new light signal in the shape of a double arrow placed on the back of the automobile, but also visible from the sides, indicating the direction the driver wishes to take and acting, as well, as a stopping signal. The indicator is controlled by the driver, who has in front of him a miniature replica of it, whereby he is able to see and control his own rear signals. The contrivance is operated by a simple movement of the driver's foot, thus leaving his hands entirely free for the maneuvering of the automobile.

ANAHEIM STORE TO CELEBRATE 21ST BIRTHDAY

ANAHEIM, March 9.—Both the style and the wool and a yard wide?

"What price do you ask?" "Five dollars for 10 yards! I'll not pay more than three."

"You won't take less than four? The stuff looks shop worn to me, but I have to have it right away so I guess I'll take it."

Thus was shopping done in the "good old days" a quarter of a century ago, says Oscar Renner and August Schumacher, proprietors of the S. Q. R. store, one of Anaheim's pioneer mercantile establishments which is to celebrate its 21st birthday March 14.

In those days wages were low, rents low, property value low and business slow with long hours, much bickering and hard work required to make a success of any enterprise, these friends and partners say.

The faces of both men beamed, however, this morning as they told of the youthful enthusiasm with which they and W. F. Quarion, now a retired Anaheim resident, no longer connected with the store, pooled their hard earned savings and purchased Sam Federman's ancient store, renaming it the "S. Q. R." store.

Renner was a clerk in Federman's store when the deal was made and Schumacher was employed in Mercereau's grocery, both earning less than $20 per month. Both men started to earn their own way in the world when they were about 14 years of age, both working in various local stores up until they decided to gamble their small savings, good health and enthusiasm against the exigencies of business.

On March 14, 1907, the papers were signed that made the three young partners owners of a business. The first location of their store was on the northeast corner of Center and Los Angeles streets, the present location of the Golden State bank. Two years later their landlord expended the sum of $3000 in "modernizing" the front of the store.

By 1914 their business had grown to such an extent that larger quarters were necessary and Dreyfus offered to erect more commodious quarters for them on his property located on the southwest corner of the same two streets. This building they occupied until 1926, when Renner and Schumacher, now the sole owners of the store, purchased the southwest corner of Center and Lemon streets and erected the fully modern $80,000 structure the enterprise now occupies.

Brea Youth Wins Cup, Plane Ride

BREA, March 9.—"Ted" Naccarato, well known Brea-Olinda high school boy, who lives near the Stewart Station compressor plant, is the proud possessor of a silver cup, a first prize awarded at the recent junior airplane exhibition in Los Angeles.

Young Naccarato is a brother of "Tony" Naccarato, aviation enthusiast and inventor, who is working on a new idea in airplane engines.

The winning model, propelled in the regulation rubber-band manner, proved capable of sustaining two-and-a-half times its own weight, easily winning first place in its classification.

Another prize won by this youthful model-maker is a ride in the Ford all-metal plane. This thrilling experience is awaiting young Naccarato's convenience.

OPERATOR READY TO START DRILLING CITY PARK WELL; H. B. TO RECEIVE ROYALTIES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 9.—The city of Huntington Beach may receive its first royalty from oil soon, it was reported here today. A telegram has been received by City Attorney A. J. Thedick from the Standard Oil company, which controls the Huntington Beach company, approving a lease granted by the city and the Huntington Beach company to W. E. McCaslin, individual operator. The lease is on Seventeenth street park in the heart of the oil district here.

Negotiations have been carried on for some time between the various concerns regarding the leasing of the park. The park originally was given to the city by the Huntington Beach company. The city was unable to lease the property until an agreement was reached with the company. It was finally agreed that the property could be leased for oil and the royalty divided equally.

The lease has now been approved and signed by all interested parties and McCaslin is expected to start drilling in the park in the near future. He is to put down four wells on the property if the first is successful and if he fails to get oil, he is to replace the park in its present condition, according to an agreement with the city.

It is expected that work on the building will be commenced by April 1. The building is to be a two-story concrete structure and will have a floor space 100 by 60 feet. It is to be erected at an approximate cost of $40,000.

RIGS REMOVED FROM OIL FIELD AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 9.—Interest in oil development in the town lot section of this city is falling off, according to a recent survey of the field. While several development projects are being carried out, several companies have been closing down without spudding in, according to reports.

J. B. Hall, individual operator here, is the latest oil operator to remove a rig after everything had been placed in readiness to drill. The Hall rig was located at Thirtieth street and Walnut avenue. It is reported that Hall sold the rig to the Richfield Oil company. Oil men report that several other companies have torn down new rigs recently in the town lot section.

The guests were then given paper sacks and rubbers with instruction to put them on their right hands and leave them there till they had worn the sacks out shaking hands with their fellow guests. CHURCH SOCIETIES

Spurgeon Missionary

Interesting indeed was the all-day meeting of Spurgeon Missionary society in the church parlors Wednesday, and a large crowd of members attended to enjoy the session.

Mrs. Walter Fine had charge of the morning Bible study, and Mrs. Moffett Rhodes, wife of the pastor, gave the mission study from the book, "The Adventure of the Church." Following the morning session was an appetizing luncheon served at noon in the basement dining-room.

The afternoon program opened with song and prayer. Mrs. Henry Donan, the president, had charge of the business session and asked for reports of officers and committees. Mrs. E. F. Whiting, chairman of mission study, offered her resignation and Mrs. Walter Fine was elected to fill her place. Plans were also made for a Missionary tea to be held Friday, March 30, at the home of Mrs. E. C. Martin, 1176 East Chestnut street.

Mrs. C. N. Mozley presided over the devotional period, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Haughton and Mrs. Henry Donan. Mrs. C. E. Perry had charge of the literary program whose topic was "China After Fifty Years." She was aided by Mrs. Will O'Barry, Mrs. Little Hamilton and the Rev. C. E. Perry.

Called together for a day of sewing, members of the First Christian Aid society turned out with enthusiasm Wednesday morning, and devoted their time to knitting comforts. As a result, eight attractive comforts were completed.

At mid-day, the scene changed from the church bungalow to the basement dining-room where a surprise dish luncheon was served, completed by a large angel food cake, presented by Mrs. F. T. Porter, wife of the pastor. Complimented upon the delicious cake, Mrs. Porter explained that it was made by the recipe offered at The Register cooking school, and in the manner explained by Miss Campbell, the clever young instructor at the school.

Mrs. James O'Brien returned thanks at the table, but aside from that, there were no special devotions, since the meeting was one of sewing alone. The remainder of the afternoon was given over to the work, and to friendly conversation.

Presbyterian Section

When the women of the southeast section of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church gathered at the home of Mrs. W. B. Moore, 2072 North Main street, Wednesday afternoon they found the same decorated in white and green bouquets in keeping with the St. Patrick season.

Magazine pictures hung on the walls of the room took the guests on a tour of Ireland.

Annual reports of the section were read, and the election of officers was held with Mrs. E. F. Gaebe chosen as leader. Mrs. Agnes McKingstry, vice-leader and Mrs. J. W. Flagg, secretary and treasurer.

Blacklog with a beautiful floral basket filled with yellow jonquils and blue forget-me-nots as an appreciation from the members of the section for her efficient services as leader for the past two years.

The guests were then given paper sacks and rubbers with instruction to put them on their right hands and leave them there till they had worn the sacks out shaking hands with their fellow guests. Much amusement was afforded by a pig drawing contest in which Mrs. Black won first prize, of a clay pipe and Mrs. Vieira was consoled with a green paper pipe.

Miss Marion Pletke gave two readings "Wearin' o' the Green."

Church Singers Share Dinner and Musical Evening

The beautiful Utt home on Lemon Heights, resounded with music last night, when members of the Tustin Presbyterian choir met there for the two-fold purpose of rehearsing Easter music and enjoying a dinner party with Miss Marjorie Rawlings, daughter of the home, as hostess.

Ranunculus and sweet peas were used in lavish profusion to heighten the charm of the home, and everyone exclaimed over the beauty of the views afforded by the wide windows. For the Santa Ana valley, sweeping to the sea, was spread out in the moonlight for the enjoyment of the young people.

Dinner was served at one large table with vari-tinted sweet peas as decoration. Covers were laid for between 25 and 30 guests, including Mrs. Thomas Willis (Cecil Fross Willis) of this city, choir director and soloist.

Surprise Charivari For Newly-weds

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer were surprised last night when a group of students of the Business Institute held a charivari in their honor. Mrs. Meyer was formerly Miss Minnie Holt, one of the most popular teachers at the school. Her marriage to Mr. Meyer took place last Saturday in Riverside.

Following a hilarious evening during which the merry-makers paraded the "newly weds" through the streets in an old buggy, a delicious supper was enjoyed at Ketter's cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer are making their home at 110 South Broadway.

Guest Group Shares Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. R. S. Whitfield entertained yesterday in her home at 1318 South Ross street, with a prettily appointed bridge luncheon. Clever green place cards and other cheery decorations announced the nearness of the Irish holiday dedicated to St. Patrick.

Following an afternoon at bridge, scores were added with Mrs. Osborn of Huntington Beach high, Mrs. Dixon of Utah, second, Mrs. C. T. Gothard low. Each received an attractive gift. An appropriate gift was also presented Mrs. E. W. Whiffle, a visitor.

and the "Bumble Bee," Miss Betty Jane Moore, daughter of the hostess, played two piano numbers. Robert Bradford, accompanied by Miss Allen Lair, sang "Mother McCree," "Macushla," and a "Drop of Dew."

After a snake contest Mrs. Lansing B. Hill exhibited a new 1928 calendar she had received from Belfast, Ireland, and read several Irish poems they were printed on it. Mr. Bradford then gave one more Irish number, "When Irish Eyes Were Smiling."

Several Irish mothers were there and gathered their children in groups for the refreshments which were served on trays decorated with a white taper in a green gum drop candlestick. The refreshments consisted of green and white fairy food topped with whipped cream and a small green candy shamrock, cookies and tea.

The committee in charge of the afternoon consisted of Mrs. L. B. Hill, Mrs. W. B. Moore, Mrs. L. B. Pearl and Mrs. P. G. Beiseel.

Birthday Celebrated With Dinner and Theater Party

Complimenting her husband's birthday, Mrs. F. F. Irwin last night entertained a group of friends in the Irwin home at 2333 North Main street, serving a delectable birthday dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Flowers in delicate spring colors, graced the table, where places were indicated for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, and for Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Tarbox, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carter and Joe Irwin. Following the enjoyable dinner, was a theater party at the Yost Broadway.

Mr. Irwin is concessionaire at Orange county park.

University Women

The University Women had a most enjoyable meeting at Ebells clubhouse last night when a group of Santa Ana Community Players under Mrs. Stella Jane Brubaker's direction presented a skit, "Slow But Sure."

Joy Brisco as "Avis," Edith Cornell as "Nora," Harry Brackett as "Henry Foster," and Frank Lansdowne as "John Thorn," gave a finished and delightful performance.

Marie Bishop's beautiful voice was enjoyed in "The Moon Behind the Cottonwood" by Cadman, "There Sits a Bird on Every Tree" by Arthur Foote, and "The Singer" by Maxwell. She was accompanied by Miss Nell Isaacson. Mrs. John Estes' delightful readings included, "Pecum Hunt," and "Aunt Doleful's Visit."

Wherever I entertain, women discover a treasure in Folger-Flavor

By Mary Dowd Reardon, Noted Food Engineer

HOW do you make your coffee? women ask me many times a day over fragrant cups of Folger's. In reply I always ask them how they make theirs. Their answers disclose the reason many are dissatisfied with the coffee they prepare at home.

Some don't even measure quantities. Others don't know that it is necessary to keep their coffee pots clean by weekly boiling in a soda solution. A few don't pay attention to the coffee they are using!

I recommend Folger's for the simple reason that its matchless flavor is a constant quality you can depend upon year in and year out. Measure your water and coffee as carefully as you measure your baking powder, and Folger's will provide you the perfect drink—the same pleasing uniformity today, next week or next year.

Perhaps you, too, will enjoy this interesting little test: Buy a can of Folger's Coffee today. Drink Folger's tomorrow morning; the next morning drink Folger's again. I know you, too, will distinguish the marked difference there is in Folger-Flavor.

Mrs. Reardon's suggested recipe for those who prefer the percolator method: MEASURE Ingredients: Use one rounded teaspoon of Folger's to each cup of water. Have water boiling before setting basket into pot. For average strength, let it percolate seven minutes. If you have any questions about coffee-making, write Mary Dowd Reardon, Oakland, Calif.

The Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church met in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. M. H. Peak, presiding.

The program subject was "Literature in Its Relation to Child Life," with Mrs. D. P. McBurney as leader. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Anna Scott on the theme "The Greatest Book."

Mrs. W. S. Kennedy and Mrs. D. P. McBurney were appointed as delegates to the Woman's Presbyterian convention at San Diego on March 27. The duet, "Whiter Than Snow," by Mrs. Wm. Breckenridge and Mrs. W. J. Lindsay was much enjoyed and followed by an interesting and instructive dialogue, "Starved Brains," by Mrs. Benjamin Heemstra and Mrs. Lindsay.

"The Broader Outlook, Books and Pictures," was the subject of Mrs. W. P. Read's talk. Mrs. G. L. Anderson's subject was "Books of Other Days as Compared with Books of Present Time." A vocal duet by Mrs. W. W. Hoy and Mrs. W. J. Lindsay closed the program, after which the program committee served refreshments of assorted home-made cookies and tea.

Baptist Women

After a forenoon of sewing and White Cross work on Wednesday, about 80 women of the Baptist church sat down to an emerald luncheon. Elaborate table decorations of smilax garlands interspersed with flowers and flanked with green candles lent color to the occasion.

The luncheon consisted of "Mulligan Stew," salads, desserts and coffee.

At 1:15 o'clock the women repaired to the auditorium for the business session and Missionary program.

A number of guests were present from neighboring towns and even one from Missouri—Mrs. Williams, mother of J. P. Williams.

A most impressive devotional service was conducted by Mrs. J. W. Law. Mrs. Hugh Neighbour read "Thanksgiving Ann."

The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Henry Topping who very interestingly told of her 30 years work as a missionary in Japan.

Although her husband has reached the age of limit, Mr. and Mrs. Topping are planning to return in the near future to Japan as volunteers.

Mrs. Topping, who has a daughter and son now on the field in Japan, is visiting at the home of her girlhood friend, Mrs. P. A. Robinson, 219 East Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were also guests at the meeting to hear their friend speak.

Of course the little Tinymites had climbed the hose to see the sights. They wondered where it led to, as it soared up through the air. While all the bunch were clinging tight, and moving up in keen delight, their friend the fat old rubber man yelled out, "You'd best beware!"

And then he disappeared from sight, by running off with all his might. Wee Cloway said, "I wonder what he meant by that remark. Perhaps we should have stayed on earth. I'm hoping now, for all I'm worth, that no real harm will come to us for starting on this lark."

"Oh, do be quiet," Scouty cried. "He told us this stunt could be tried, and when he started out, he just meant that we should hang on tight. We'll climb and climb, up to the top and there, of course, we'll have to stop. Wherever it may lead to, it is bound to be all right."

They kept on climbing for a spell, and then the bunch heard best described as a square oval, which is very good in a woman. The cheek and jaw lines are almost vertical, yet the general effect is of curves, since there are no pronounced angles shown.

This type may wear her hair combed smoothly back from her brow, and look quite distinguished. All other square-faced women should cleave to the curved hair line at the forehead.

We often find in women of firm sweet, character, the type of face that we call the modified square. In such a face, the cheek lines, though parallel, are not straight, but curve a little outward. The jaw lines are not so prominently and uncompromisingly angular, but are rather somewhat rounded. This form of face is often very lovely, expressing, as it does, womanly strength of character, combined with tenderness. Such women are usually admirable wives and mothers.

OUTLAWS OF RED RIVER

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

One of those Car Shovers is performing just outside the office window. He has managed to push a properly parked car right in front of a fire plug, and he himself is all nicely ensconced in the good parking space which the car that he shoved away once had by right of possession.

The Car Shover is a well-known pest of our modern life. No one is immune. Anyone and everyone has the experience of returning to his parking place, finding his car shoved before a drive way or fire plug, a pink ticket on the seat, and another car serene in the place he found with such difficulty earlier in the day.

Car Shovers are a despicable breed of humanity who flourish everywhere. Their activities are not confined to pushing cars.

Car Shovers are the people who refuse to take their turn at the end of a long line before the theater or railway station ticket window.

Car Shovers are the people who won't wait their turn in the store but insist that they are ahead of someone who has been waiting fully twice as long as they have.

Car Shovers are the people who pick your grapes and apples and pears and flowers and get out a lawsuit if they miss one squash.

One of the most beautiful pieces of property I have ever seen has been utterly ruined by Car Shovers. Some vacant lots skirt a river valley with wooded slopes leading down to the river.

The owners of the lots have cut rustic paths through the tangled slopes, have built rustic benches and summer houses. But they have given up. A half dozen "No Dumping" signs do nothing.

The wooded paths are now nothing but a disgusting litter of old tin cans, catsup bottles, and discarded batteries and electric light bulbs. The benches and summer houses have been whitened and carved and filled with disgusting debris.

The funny part about it is that the very worst dumpers are people with adjoining property.

Having a famous English novel as a press agent would seem a rather utopian expectation for the average movie star. Two of America's most famous screen players, however, have been recently used as characters in a book—though somewhat disguisedly and without a general public knowledge of the fact—in one of the best selling novels of the past year. We refer to "Sorrell and Son," the popular story by Warwick Deeping which has been made into a picture and is now showing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

One of the episodes in Deeping's book concerns the arrival of two renowned American movie stars—"The World's Lovers"—at the Pelican Inn in Winstonbury, a small village in England about a hundred miles outside of London. Their names in the story, as many readers will recall, are Ethel Frobisher and Duncan Scott—"Ethel and Duncan" as the author refers to them—and the rumor has persisted that he had in mind none other than Mary and Doug.

WEST END THEATER

When Tom Mix and his wonder horse, Tony, are scheduled for a showing at any theater, that theater is always well filled. Yesterday was no exception at the West End theater where Mix's latest western thriller, "Outlaws of Red River," had its first presentation.

And again Tom Mix had every one gripping their seats in one of the most spectacular and daring series of episodes ever filmed. But this last may be misleading and give the impression that this picture is nothing but action, suspense and excitement. It is that, but interwoven into a story that is of vital importance and of sustained interest from beginning to end.

ATTENDANCE GAINS AT MESA SCHOOL

COSTA MESA, March 9.—The Costa Mesa grammar school is rapidly going to the front and boasts one of the best organized systems in Orange county. New pupils are entering each week, coming from all parts of the United States. The present enrollment is about 525.

The new room offers art supervision, music appreciation classes, manual training, coaching in athletics, and extra curricular activities through Girls' Social club, Dramatic club, Literary club, Boys' and Girls' body organization.

The students of the Costa Mesa school are afforded all of the privileges and opportunities of large city school systems.

Panama Parrot At Costa Mesa Says 217 Words

COSTA MESA, March 9.—One of the wisest parrots in the world is staying at the Costa Mesa Bird and Game farm here, it was announced today by M. G. Elghmey, proprietor of the farm. The bird, a Panama parrot, has a vocabulary of 217 words, Elghmey says. The bird is only five years old and according to Elghmey, parrots often live to be 110 years old so the bird still has a chance to learn something.

The parrot's main accomplishment is whistling at the command of its owner. It has a comical ability to carry on a monologue telephone conversation, according to Elghmey. The owners of the bird refuse to place a value on it.

The farm also boasts a dancing parrot, an African Gray bird. The parrot speaks in three different tones and is an excellent imitator, according to Elghmey. It is valued at $125.

ALPHA BETA DEALER PLANS CELEBRATION

RECKLESS DRIVERS DRAW JAIL TERMS

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, March 8.—Two men received jail sentences and fines on reckless driving charges when they appeared before Judge John Landell this week. A. W. West and Jim Wells, both of Los Angeles, were sentenced to spend 90 days in jail and were fined $250 each.

The Black, also of Los Angeles, was fined $100 by Judge Landell on a drunk charge.

Armless Aviator Plans New York To Paris Flight

FRESNO, March 8.—Despite the loss of both arms, Losia C. Thornton, local aviator, plans to duplicate the feat of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and fly from New York to Paris.

For the past nine years Thornton has been piloting airplanes. He has overcome his handicap by use of a device which enables him to fly an airplane, drive an automobile, and even perform such small tasks as lighting a match.

At present he is negotiating for financial backing. If he is successful in his effort to obtain a plane, Thornton plans a non-stop flight from coast-to-coast to familiarize himself with the craft before attempting the Atlantic hop.

Although refusing to divulge all his plans at this time, the aviator has announced his intention of taking off from New York next July.

"The Sausage with the Reputation"

This Tender, Succulent Sausage Makes a Better Breakfast

The rare flavor of Hauser's Pride sausage has entranced Los Angeles for 46 years. The perfect blend of seasoning—not too much—not too little —whets the appetite like a costly hors d'oeuvre.

The tender young morsels of Eastern corn-fed

pork which are so skillfully combined with costly

aromatic spices in the Hauser's Old Home recipe, give it the savory deliciousness that belongs solely to Hauser's Pride—no other sausage is so delicious and distinctive in flavor and so easily digested. It is a Health Builder.

Serve Hauser's Pride for breakfast, luncheon or dinner. Use this delicious sausage in the dressing of poultry or meat roasts; it makes a wonderful improvement in the flavor.

EXOTIC TONES FOR SPORTS CLOTHING

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 8.—Little or no ballyhoo is needed for the sport costumes seen this season on the winter beaches, on the golf courses and around the polo fields. They speak for themselves. And in revealing the modes which will be seen next spring and summer in the north, they talk right out loud.

Observe this one, for instance—a knitted wool sports coat, an import, of course. It is covered with small squares of white. Quiet enough, you say. But wait! Bordering each small white square are oblongs in colors, ending short at the corners to permit a small square opening at each point of the white block.

And the colors of the oblongs—light blue, dark blue, lemon, deep yellow, rose and dark red! The sleeves end in wide cuffs made of narrow stripes of the same colors. Compared to this exclamative but not unpleasant combination of hues, Jacob's coat of many colors was just a mourning costume.

Some of the sport suits have embroidered posies in green and deep rose. Sport bags, also in striking colors, borrow their motifs from the Baltic, and look it. They are exotic and full of strange and beguiling tints. Amber topped, with amber clasps, also ornamented in Baltic or Indian hues.

Costume jewelry goes well with these gay frocks and coats. Cut crystal, for instance, appears on the wrists and at the throats of the migratory arbiters of style. Or a simple plect of cut ebony, graced with the grotesque features of a Japanese god, held to the wrist with a strap made of dull gold cylinders.

Don't be at all surprised if country club verandas next summer are filled with brightly clad girls wearing two-toned hats, small felts, close-fitting, in many shades, slate green; pink and deep rose; pastel and Dutch blue.

It's what the winter tropics report; and what the summer styles will echo five or six months from now.

"Steer Beef Is Best"

Steer meat is not only more desirable from the standpoint of being more wholesome, but it is also in the end the cheapest meat, as its food value in proportion to its weight is so much higher than cow meat. The cow meat is insipid in taste and contains too much water. Steer beef is more solid and there is less waste because of the larger amount of nourishing protein and the firmness of the flesh.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

U. S. TO ASSIST IN INCOME TAX WORK

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair has announced that revenue officers will be assigned to public places to aid income tax payers in making out the returns for 1927, payable before March 15, 1928.

In cities government experts will be stationed in banks, trust companies and department stores to aid the tax payers fill out the blanks. Service in rural communities will be furnished by officers who will visit every county seat.

Blair said the service, including administration of the oath, will be without cost to taxpayers.

Mexico Minerals Increase In 1927

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—Mexico's mineral production made decided gains in 1927 over the previous year in all except gold and antimony, a semi-official survey of the industry indicates.

Silver production increased 1.75 per cent; lead, 13.14 per cent; mercury, 71.74 per cent; arsenic, 27.03 per cent; graphite, 46.8 per cent; copper, 5.04 per cent, and zinc, 28.97 per cent.

The decrease in the gold output was 5.96 per cent and in antimony 34.7 per cent.

Every effort has been made by the government to aid the mining industry, it is asserted. "The government branches having to do with the mines and mine affairs," says the survey, "were quite fair in handling various problems which have arisen, such as making concessions in taxation when production has not justified the old rates or when companies rebelled because they were unable to carry their tax burdens."

Hope that there will be continued improvement is also expressed. "With the physical and political conditions of the country much improved, it is hoped that prices will react during the present year, such a reaction is all that is needed to make the mining situation decidedly attractive."

Welfare Group In Eastern Meeting

NEW YORK, March 9.—A real home for every American boy and girl and elimination of conditions making children dependent upon the state, the city or nation, are among the objects of the Child Welfare Committee of America conference here.

Broadening amendments to the mothers' aid and widows' pension laws of the 42 states in which such statutes exist and the enactment of new basic laws in the six states which until now have ignored them, will be among the subjects discussed.

Aerial Maps Are Used In Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., March 9.—Aerial maps are playing a notable part in the development of Canada's mining industry and resulting in a greater influx of prospectors to Canadian mining fields, according to the chief aerial survey engineer of the Topographical surveys. Canada is following to a comparatively slight extent the lead of England, France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland. The total area of Canada mapped to the standard necessary for the issue of topographical maps in 1927 was approximately 9900 square miles, while geographic mapping covered in the neighborhood of 21,000 square miles.

1843 Lamp Given Yale University

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 9.—A student lamp made in 1843 by William Jones as an experiment to replace unsatisfactory table illumination while students were "burning the midnight oil" has been given to Yale university by the maker's son, Reginald C. Weeks of New York.

The lamp was made by placing two peg top lamps on a cross piece attached to a carved wooden upright. Holes in the upright permitted raising or lowering the crossbar with its lamps. Iron bronze pins being used in the holes.

The idea of the maker has been preserved in modern student lamps.

EVENING SALUTATION

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self-content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran,—
But let me live by the side of the road,
And be a friend of man.
—Sam Walter Foss.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM A CURSE

Andrew Jackson made the declaration that to the victors belong the spoils when he threw men out of office who had opposed him for election and put in his own personal followers. This doctrine was for a long period of time the underlying party activity in the United States and was fairly well accepted. As business interests, however, began more and more to be affected by legislation and by the attitude of public officials, it began to be recognized that this doctrine of spoils amounted to turning over public interests to private parties. We passed through a period of corruption in which the railroad interests and the venal politicians simply plundered the public through public grants on the one side and bonds and watered stock on the other. A revolt took place in the public conscience. Cleveland, with his statement that a public office is a public trust, civil service law, the abolition of passes, the searchlight on lobbyists and thorough campaigning up and down the country bettered conditions very materially. But unquestionably today politics and big business are more completely braided together and touch at more points, and public officials of high and low degree are by one means and another brought to do the will of those who have personal designs, than at any other period of our history. To be sure, men were disgraced in the United States like Joseph P. Foraker through the Standard Oil scandal, but even in those days it had not reached the serious condition that it has reached today. The story of Dougherty and Doheny and Fall and Sinclair and Hays and the party exchequer and the millions of dollars involved and governors placed in jail and others only prevented by the statute of limitations, and men elected to the United States Senate by the use of such an unconscionable amount of money and by such crookedness that two of them were simultaneously barred, all suggest that with all the material prosperity in the United States there is a searching campaign needed in the interest of fundamental honesty and patriotism, regardless of party relationships, that will cause the people, both in private and public life, to understand that it is as corrupt and crooked and vile for men to steal property or privilege which belongs to all of the people as it is to steal that which belongs to any one of the people. The spoils system is a curse.

A MILESTONE

The other evening there was celebrated in Santa Ana the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the lumber business now known as the "Barr Lumber Company." The present head of the Barr Lumber company very graciously gave a complimentary dinner to the man who founded this company and who for forty-three years guided its destiny. The man is Mr. A. C. Bowers. We listened to the fine encomium spoken of Mr. Bowers by his former associates and other men who had dealt with him for years.

We believe there is a vital connection between the character of the man and the permanency of his business. There is a difference between the expansion that comes only from brilliancy and that which comes from steadfastness and character and the dignity which the consciousness of true life loans to any man who is serving. The type of man who founded this business very clearly was one whom all should envy.

It was interesting to realize that one of the big businesses of the city had reached its half century mark with having only two heads in that length of time and both of them present, in the full flush of health and vigor for be it known that Mr. Bowers is still in the same character of business at other points than Santa Ana. We were also impressed with the fact that there were so many who had dealt with the firm all these years and they were not voices from the grave. They were voices of robust, energetic, active men, still doing business in their various lines. We feel that they all should be congratulated. The whole affair could be treated as an epitome of all that is claimed for this remarkable country.

MAKING A MAN A LAWBREAKER

Judge Weyand of Colusa county, has recommended to the California State Crime commission that all statutes punishing actions not actually criminal in themselves be repealed. The judge says that even the most lawabiding man can scarcely move except he has violated some penal statute. The judge is certainly correct in the conditions which he describes, whether his remedy is the one which should be adopted or not.

The statute books of every state are loaded with ill-conceived and half-baked legislation. Laws are passed because legislators are stirred by a single incident which may be peculiar and very unusual, but a law to meet that peculiar situation is enacted which restricts and hinders all people. Our peace officers have their time consumed in looking after innumerable ordinances and statutes which affect personal conduct but involving no moral turpitude. Some of these, to be sure, are needed in our swift moving age in order that progress may be made but many of them are not and a differentiation should be made between those that are and are not needed so that men who are desirous of constantly being in harmony with law may conduct themselves in reason and friendliness without violating the statute and being forced to consider themselves lawbreakers.

MAYBE IT'S A JOKE

We are becoming jealous of Nicaragua. Nicaragua is going to have honest elections. Our great government is going to see that she has. We are tremendously anxious for honest elections. We should like to live in a country where honest elections are carried on and honest men elected to office. The marines are going to see that it is done in Nicaragua.

Why can we not have one or two of these marines in Indiana and Illinois and Pennsylvania, where corruption is extant such as the Nicaraguans not only do not know about but, poor fellows, they couldn't even understand? If we have such great gobs of virtue to unload onto unwilling people why don't we get a few parcels for ourselves? We might send Ed Jackson of Indiana, Dougherty of Ohio, Fall of Texas, or rather now of Washington, Vane of Pennsylvania, and Len Small of Illinois down there as expert witnesses to show them how nominations and elections in this country are carried on. If the Nicaraguans can teach them any tricks, we rather believe that the Nicaraguans would be placed on the payroll of some of the corporations in the United States and the center of "civilization" would move swiftly in the direction of Nicaragua. It would be a joke, if it weren't so serious. Maybe it is intended to be one anyway.

WE STILL HAVE RAILROADS

Samuel Rea, retired president of the Pennsylvania railroad, does not think the railroads need to fear airplane, water or motor competition very greatly. In a speech in Philadelphia recently he predicted that 50 years from now motor buses will have absorbed a larger part of short-haul passenger traffic than they now carry, and that airplanes will be supplying a de luxe fast passenger and express service; but the railroads, he feels confident, will still be doing the bulk of the work on long shipments.

"So far as the railroads themselves are concerned, the progress of the next 50 years seems more likely to be a matter of orderly development than of radical change," he says.

This, of course, is the view of a railroad man and you probably could find men in other professions to disagree with him. To a layman, however, it does appear that he has hit the nail pretty squarely where it ought to be hit.

PUPPY LOVE

A couple separated in Salt Lake City, finding marriage a failure. They had been married eight years and the man was only a hundred and three and the woman ninety-five. The difficulty undoubtedly was that they were too young to know their own minds. Age and experience of the contractors make a very good guarantee of the permanency of the contract—so we have been told.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

THAT AWFUL CHILD

Dick had been pressed into speaking a piece at the school entertainment. The teacher had said he must. His mother had said he simply had to do as he was bid. Dick kicked and stamped and roared and pranced. He wouldn't speak that piece. A silly old piece about, "Who Has Seen the Wind?" He never, never, never.

The fatal day arrived. Mother captured Dick early. She scrubbed him. She polished him. She squeezed his feet into new shoes. She tied his neck up tight with a new round collar and a dangerous tie. Then she said "Now stand over there and say it."

"I can't. I forgot."

"Dick, you start right off or I'll attend to you." Dick started right off and never drew a breath until he had said the last word. What that was nobody on this earth would ever know.

"Well, you know it anyway. Now see if you can't do as well as Sue Press. Surely you're as smart as Sue Press."

Even the hated name failed to bring the light of battle to the dead eyes of the suffering Dick. His mother thought it wisest to hold his hand all the way to the door so he quivered and quivered the hundred miles of sidewalk that lay on the block between his house and the school.

His turn came, "Who has seen the wind,"—by Dick Morano.

"Go on, Dick, that's you," whispered mother loudly, shoving him off the seat and on to his feet when the teacher reached for him and hauled him to the platform. Dick anchored a few feet from the steps. He remained anchored, swaying slightly, but making no other sign of life. The teacher murmured, in stage whispers, "Who has—Who has seen the—" But Dick, redder than the reddest stripe in his tie, made no sound. Somebody giggled.

Dick sent a look of hate loaded with threats in the direction of the giggler and turned to flee. The giggler was louder the second time. Dick stopped, turned about and faced the giggler and then—shades of his grandfather, he thumbed his nose. Loud applause followed his exit. Mother almost fainted away. When she reached home she wept and said over and over, "That awful child. He'll be the death of me!"

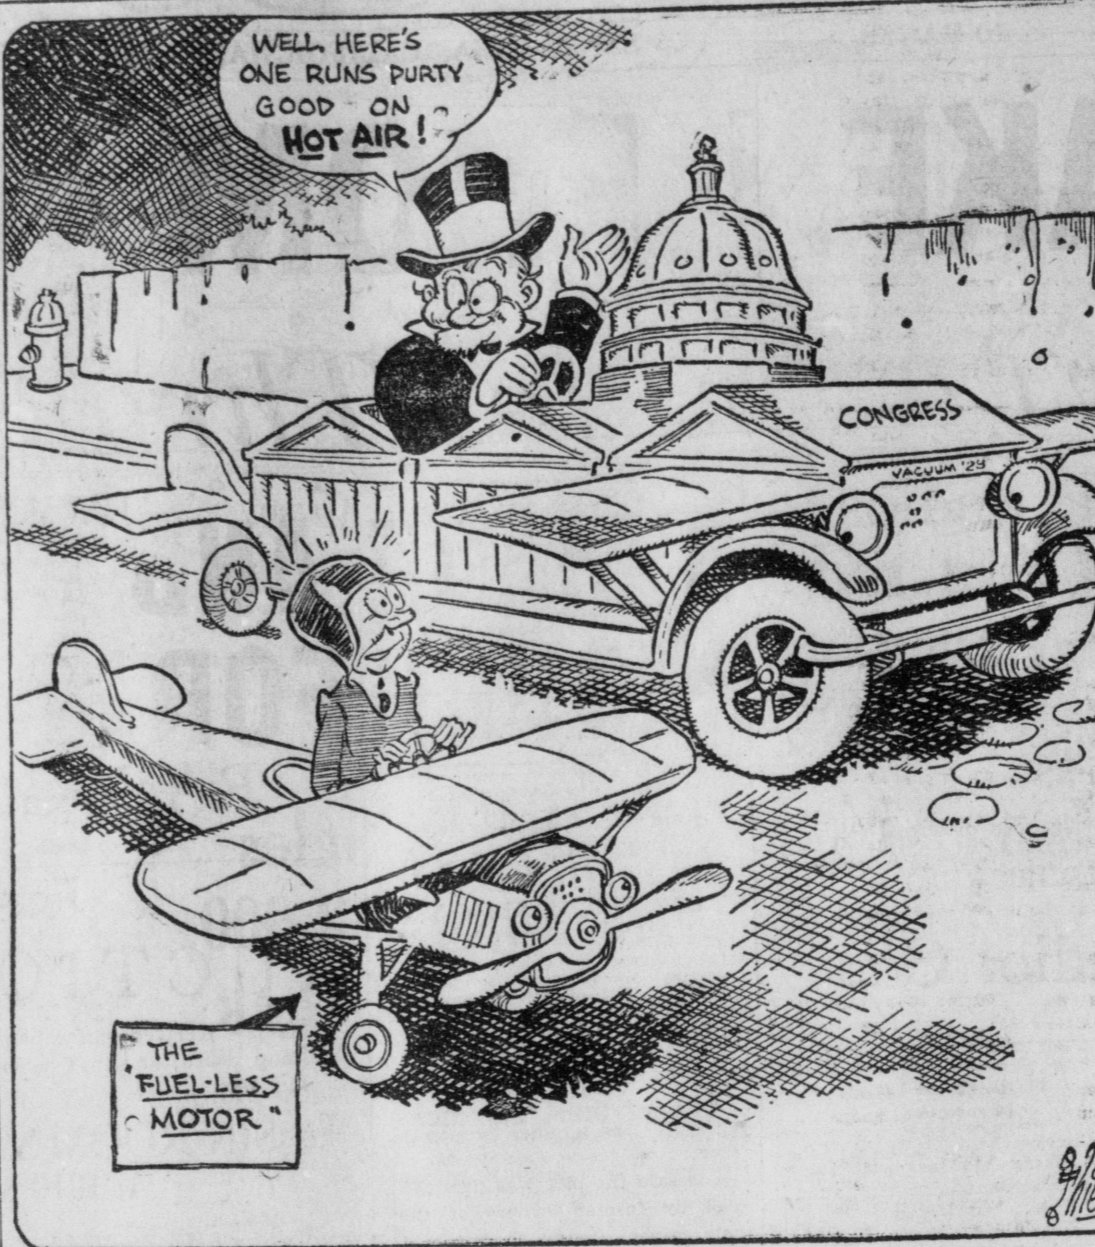

The awful child raced home as though the furies chased him. He ran to the hayloft and tearing off the resplendent tie, the tight collar and the unbearable shoes, he lay in the hay and sobbed as if his heart were broken. By and by his father found him and comforted him.

Father was the only one who knew why he did that dreadful thing. He was his father's shy son. He was driven desperate. He made a dreadful pother in the neighborhood because he was too shy to say he was shy. Many a child has suffered the same way. Why won't grown folk be a little bit discerning?

If a boy suddenly slams a door in your face and runs away; if a girl suddenly turns saucy and says, "Not for you," if a child rebels in a storm of tears for no evident reason; if a child forgets his manners and giggles and makes loud and rude remarks; if he runs out of the room and shouts like a pirate the moment he strikes the free air; if he should thumb his nose at the public; hold your wrath. Ten to one, he is a shy child being crucified for a celebration.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A MAN I KNOW

I know a man who wears a smile,
When troubles irk or cares oppress him;
He whistles softly all the while
And never lets his woes distress him.
Fate treats him badly now and then
But on he fares, serene, unworried,
And never lets his fellow men
Suspect that he is sad or worried.

He toils contented at his task,
A pattern for the cheats and shirkers;
He is never a man to ask
Assistance from his fellow workers.
He does his stint from day to day
With same unwearied devotion
And yearly gets a raise of pay
As well as some well earned promotion.

For him hard work, and that alone,
For all his simple needs suffices;
No wild oats has he ever sown
He has no faults, he has no vices.
Each year he banks a goodly sum
For he has thriftily decided
That if hard times should ever come,
His needs will amply be provided.

Since he began to work, each year
He's sought to better his condition
And still he gives a ready ear
To all the urgings of ambition.
Praise this good fellow as you can
You'll find it hard to over rate him,
He is a model of a man,
And gosh! how I abominate him!

CAPILLARY ART

Art is coming under the influence of democracy. In former times the great artists painted pictures only for churches and rich men's palaces.

Statuary was intended to adorn royal courts and the mansions of the opulent and the private parks of the nobles. Nowadays statues are being erected in public places where even the most humble and obscure person may admire them. Pictures are hung in museums which have their free days when the public is generously invited.

It is said that Michelangelo and Raphael and the other artists of that time generally painted only saintly or archbishops. Gradually artists discovered that the common life of the people contained subjects quite as interesting and picturesque as the lives of the more favored.

In literature Dickens made quite an innovation when he turned his pen toward the obscure and lowly. We all want to be rich, of course, and famous, but rich men are not as interesting as they used to be. The most noted monuments to the heroes of the late war were those to the unknown soldier. It was a war won, by the way, by the heroism of the common recruit and not by the startling genius of some Napoleon.

It is a question whether a rich man should build himself a fine house, from the windows of which he can only look out upon the abodes of the poor, or build better houses for the poor that he may regard them from his windows.

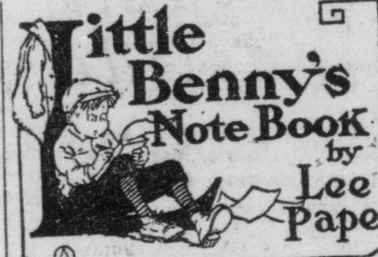

Men of wealth are gradually turning their attention toward replacing the slums by better habitations. Altogether it looks as if art, if it is to have a firm foundation, must rest upon the basis of the despised demos.

It is the fashion of the intellectuals to deride the public and to think that only a few chosen ones can appreciate or be benefited by the works of art.

The newest invasion into the ranks of art, if it can be called an art, is the motion picture. This is the most capillary of all arts. It gives to the least and lowest and provides him entertainment which heretofore was for those only who could pay from a dollar up for a seat at the theaters.

For this reason it appears that the moving picture industry, resting as it does upon the appreciation of the whole public, is firmly settled and is in line with democracy.

CURRENT COMMENT

By CHESTER H. ROWELL

THE full text of Secretary Kellogg's note on the outlawry of war, now available, confirms the first impression that it evades the only issue. Similarly, the European nations reported as favorable to the Kellogg proposal are obviously counting on evading it also. Which may be just as well. If the nations can not agree to say what they mean, it is probably useful to get their signatures to a document saying half of it.

THE whole question, of course, is what to do with defensive war. If two nations agree not to make war on each other, and one of them breaks that agreement, what shall the other do? Obviously, break it, too, and defend itself. Since we would do that, treaty or no treaty, Secretary Kellogg is willing to leave it out of the treaty. So is France, in a treaty with America. But when a whole group of nations is involved, in a single treaty, the case becomes different.

THE difference is this. The right of individual defense may need no treaty to establish it. Even a treaty giving it up would be abrogated by the failure of the other party to keep it. But the right of common defense does not exist unless it is mentioned. And in a group of nations, some stronger than others, common defense is the only defense that would defend. Therefore, the powers of Western Europe have entered into a no-war pact, which nevertheless provides for united instead of separate defense.

America needs no such help, as it will take no such obligation, but it can not expect England, Belgium, France, Germany and Italy, which have made such an arrangement among themselves, to give it up. If there is to be a new treaty, in which we join, that treaty must either recognize this arrangement, as to the nations which have made it, or else must be in language so indefinite as to leave it standing, without mention. Possibly this is Secretary Kellogg's intention. If not, then he is inviting the peoples of Western Europe, whose peace is safeguarded by the Treaties of Locarno, to give up that protection.

THIS Japanese influenza outbreak is evidently the real thing. There is influenza every year, all over the world, which does relatively little harm. There is another influenza—what the difference is, nobody has yet found out—which comes at long ger intervals, and is a really serious disease, besides being about the most contagious of known ailments. Apparently, the Japanese have it.

THIS means precaution for America, but it should not mean undue alarm. We are still a largely immune generation. Another great outbreak is scarcely due for ten or twenty years yet, and before that time medical science may be expected to know as much of this disease as it does of others. For this year, the danger is not great, but nothing would be gained by shutting one's eyes to the fact that there is a real and serious outbreak, only nine days by steamer from American shores.

COUNT Keyserling says that America is ruled by women. If he means that tactful or nagging women "boss" their husbands, in doubtless happens in all lands. In America it is less mitigated by masculine arrogance than in others. If he means that women in America have imposed certain deencies as public policy for America, but Count Keyserling is too much of a philosopher to regard these things as important, even if true. What has really startled him is that he has found more women than men in America capable of intelligent conversation with a cultivated European gentleman.

IN THAT sense, America is very likely to come to be ruled by its women. Whatever theories we may have of government by the majority which votes, all countries are actually controlled by the minority which thinks. And that, to an astounding extent, is coming to mean in America the educated women.

COUNT Keyserling found it by casual observation. But it can be proved statistically. Intellectual leadership depends on two factors—brains and knowledge. Nature gave the women half the brains. Education gave them much more than half the knowledge. There are more girls than boys in the high schools. There may be no more women than men in the universities but there are many more in the departments which lead to larger knowledge. The majority of the men are studying some craft, to make a living. The majority of the women are studying something which enlarges knowledge and nourishes thought. If men abandon knowledge to women, they will also yield them power.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

USEFUL EDUCATION

Today I give another brush stroke to the picture of the ideal citizen, as I see him, by discussing the tenth of eleven attitudes I think he maintains—a utilitarian attitude toward education.

Educators sometimes become a bit restless and resentful when, now and then, the citizens who pay the bills begin to ask questions about the kind of education they are supporting. But obviously we cannot hope to run a vast public educational system from kindergarten to state university, paid for as our states, on the theory that the community has no right to a voice in the problems of the class room.

We have been running on the implied assumption that the school teacher is essentially smarter and more farsighted than the citizen outside the teaching profession, but an honest survey of a cross section of the teaching profession compared with an honest survey of a cross section of any other professional or occupational group of citizens will reveal, I think, that the assumption is false.

In fact, I am not at all sure but that the teaching profession may not turn out to be one of the serious obstacles in the road of any thoroughgoing reform of our educational system, for any real reform looking to more reality in education, will upset so many professional vested interests that resistance by the profession is inevitable.

Just as the majority of lawyers resist legal reform, and the majority of business men resist economic reform, I suggest that what we need is not less public criticism of our school system, but more intelligent criticism of our educational objectives and policies.

When I say that I think the ideal citizen will maintain utilitarian attitude toward education, I do not mean he will think only of vocational education and technical training for bread and butter work. I mean only that he will insist that our educational system shall seek to fit men for living and working in the America of 1928, rather than following blindly the conventional objectives of education that have come down to us from the Middle Ages.

In a college of 6,000 students in 1928, it is safe to say that 6,000 will never become scholars in the old sense of scholarship, that they should not try to become scholars in the old sense of scholarship, and that if we made them into Ph. D. scholars we could probably unfit them more from them than fit them for happy and effective lives.

All that the modern college has done to date about these 6,000 is to separate them from the 10,000, making good scholars out of the 10,000 and frankly admitting that it resigns itself to making only fair or poor scholars out of the 6,000.

The ideal citizen will insist that the American college realize that the 6,000 present a new educational problem that calls for something more useful than just setting them off as mediocre scholars.
